Objective and Purpose:

To promote cooperation and friendship among the breeders and owners of Brittanys and to encourage higher standards in breeding, training and showing of Brittanys in the field and in the show ring; to discourage the breed from becoming split into groups of "field dogs" and "show dogs" and to strive to keep it forever a "dual dog".

“More Than One Way: How Belle Became a Good Retriever”

Part II

Years later, when Gar began to hunt pheasants, and the huge gaudy cocks would spring from the stubble of corn or wheat or brushy ditch before him, the same unerring process would occur. The rising gun would catch and swing past that incredibly long tail, past the bulky body, and at last it would achieve the lead the gunner knew was needed.

It was not an advantage to be measured in feet or inches—rather it was a condition, born of the bird's speed and its single of flight relative to the gun, that had to be achieved before the shot would score. Other shots on ringnecks, going straight away or incoming, could be handled as Gerald had taught him long before.

But there was one way a covey of quail had of leaving cover that left him frustrated, gun empty and all the birds streaking toward escape. He recalled now a big pointer dog named Sam he had once owned and treasured—lemon-eared and green-eyed and a elusive and a tireless all-day hunter. Sam was adept at searching out the most elusive and wary covey, and pointing them staunchly in the thickest of cover.

Soon after lunch one golden autumn day, Sam was found after a long search, when the merest tip of his tail was spied above a briar patch. He was planted there among the brambles as if he too had taken root. And when 20 or more bobs burst out before him, each was turning the tightest circle possible to quaildom—the whole covey a whirling corkscrew.

Two sets of gunner's reflexes came into play, and two gun barrels were tossed about the sky, but when all the shooting was ended, Gar and his companion turned ruefully to one another as each confessed he had “never touched a feather!”

As they compared notes on the incident, each realized that as birds turned that close and tight a circle--and singles never seemed to so much as coveys—there simply was no way the gunner could bring the gun around fast enough properly to lead the whirling target.

Gar recalled one dark afternoon when birds were hard to find and chances few, and Sam had trailed a fleeing covey some distance, to stand them at last in a briar bus. A kick into the thorns sent them spiraling out in that incredibly tight turn that left Gar three shells poorer and no birds richer--while Sam stood his ground with a pained expression. All of his trouble had been for nothing.

Sam had spent two of his hunting seasons on loan to a friend, Gar recalled, chained to a dog house near the alley in his friend's back yard. It was in a small-town neighborhood harboring several would-be bird hunters, and all had permission to use the dog at their pleasure--first-come, first-served.

Sam was taken hunting every day—no one-man hunter, he grew rock-hard with the sport. The first man along the alley each morning was his proud master for the day! Gar noted from their accounts that Sam seemed to behave better with his chance companions than with old friends. Perhaps he feared to take liberties with strangers that he dared with family.

Gar's thoughts returned to the present long enough for him to note that the day was becoming a remarkably pleasant one, and to pour himself half-a-cup of coffee from the bottle that lay on the seat beside him. Then as he drove and sipped the steaming brew, its aroma caused him to recall other brilliant winter mornings long ago. . . .

There was a time during his middle years when each January Gar was free to spend three weeks in South Carolina shooting quail on a plantation whose owners went at that time to a Caribbean island.

Gar and his friend Stanley, whose passion for the hunt was as great as Gar's , paid a modest rental and served as caretakers of a sort, and in return had the use of the plantation kennel, a hunting Jeep, and the whole 12,000 acres of quail-rich lands that comprised the place called Sugar River. They spent all their daylight hours in the field, shooting the legal limit of birds each day, and enjoying the myriad wildlife all about them.

“Notice, Gar,” Stanley asked one day, “how that little black-eared bitch Belle never seems to final a dead bird for us? The other dogs always best her to them.” Gar agreed.

Belle was a small black and white dropper belonging to the plantation, as did half-a-dozen other hardy rangers that Gar and Stanley hunted daily. She was pint-sized, bright-eyed, eager and friendly, and an enthusiastic hunter , but she always seemed to arrive on the scene just seconds too late to score with a covey find of her own, and at pointing singles too she was less effective than her bigger kennel mates. When birds were downed, and the dogs sent to retrieve, she never seemed to be quick enough to find a bird to bear back proudly to her masters.

Gar and Stanley hunted the Sugar River acres from a Jeep, cruising slowly through pine stands down narrow fire-lanes or along field edges, allowing three or four dogs to hunt before them. With each find they would stop nearby, flush the birds and shoot among them, pick up the dead and go on to another covey, leaving the singles undisturbed.

In that way they could keep careful accounting of the number of birds taken from each group, for their hosts were particular that no covey range be over gunned. Each bird retrieved was dropped in a wooden shell case, kept for that purpose in the back of the jeep.

Two dog boxes, also carried in the back of their vehicle, allowed them to rest one set of dogs, while another scoured the sedges and feed strips of their winding route. But the affectionate Belle, having humbled her way into their hearts, often rode between them when her time to rest had come, watching the action as keenly as Gar and Stanley did.

“It hurts her, Gar,” Stanley observed, “not to be able to find as many birds as Joe and Flash and Randy do. You can see it in her eyes, even though she backs them promptly. How she envies them when they find and fetch the birds!” And Belle acknowledged, with a glance from one to the other, that they were talking of her.

“She tries so hard,” Gar answered. “I understand she was the runt of her litter, and often sickly as a pup. She just fell behind the others, and hasn't ever made it up." And Belle, with a thump of her tail against the floor of the Jeep, seemed to agree.

Soon they stopped upon a gentle elevation, to sit for a few minutes in the mid-morning sun, drinking a welcome cup of coffee, savoring the one to come. Belle lay quietly between them, perhaps knowing she would soon be released to hunt and hoping this time to give a good account of herself.

Then she and Joe and Randy were put down to hunt the sedge-filled valley that lay before them. They sped away, with Gar and Stanley following behind. Ten minutes later Randy was running full-speed down the weedy edge of a bean stubble field when the scent of birds in covey struck him like a sledge, turning him instantly into stone—head and tail high, nostrils dilated and quivering, eyes bugged and out of focus. Joe was only steps behind, and backed his hunting partner quickly. Belle, who had been searching a small thicket nearby, came as usual late on the scene and backed the two at a distance.

Gar stopped the jeep a few yards behind the two forward dogs, and as he and Stanley slid shotguns out of the leather scabbards hung behind their seat, said, "This is that big covey we raised last week, Stan, should be 20 birds or more." Stanley grunted agreement as the two stepped forward, loading their guns, with unspoken understanding positioning themselves to right and left of the staunchly pointing Randy.

Almost at once as they stepped past the dog the air was full of speeding quail. Stanley, always the faster shot, dropped the first bird to burst out of the grass after a flight of fifteen yards. Gar pulled off as he saw it hit, picked another dodging to the right and dropped it cleanly, turning at once to a bob going straight away at thirty yards and seeing it too fold and come down.

Stanley had taken a second bird immediately after the first, the two falling almost together, and then had dropped one quartering to the left toward the pines. In a moment the shooting was over, with five birds killed cleanly and the dozen and a half survivors sailing away to the shelter of the deep forest. Feathers drifted on the breeze as the dogs leaped forward to retrieve.

Steady on pointed game as they were, these veterans of countless hunts wasted no time before dashing after fallen birds. No field trial nicety of steady to wing and shot on their part; as the birds sprang from the grass the dogs were at once in motion. Randy was on Stanley's first two birds in a moment, scooping up first one then the other, a feat not every dog could manage, bearing both back proudly, head high, with the first bird he had picked up tucked well back in his capacious mouth, out of sight but delivered safely after Stanley had taken the other from him.

Randy had not seen the third victim of Stanley's gun come down, and eagerly accepted directions in his quest. Joe had seen Gar's second bird fall, marked it well and raced back to him with the bird held high, before the gunner had taken three steps forward. Then he too had to be directed on his further search. About this time a crestfallen Belle had arrived on the scene, coming from the distant rear where she had dutifully honored the find.

She hastened to join Randy in his search, but almost at once he scented the bird, located it quickly, and had it halfway back to Stanley before Belle was fairly on the scene. In frustration she turned toward Joe where he rooted in the grass but before she could reach his side he had come up with a fluttering bob and bore it proudly to his master.

Belle was crushed with shame and embarrassment—and how clearly dogs show those emotions—and could only stand ignominiously aside while her two canine friends were praised and petted. Again she had been beaten to the birds! She could only slink away and hide behind the jeep while Joe and Rowdy were made much of, in the usual way of the hunt, and given the heads of the morsel for the tardy Belle.

Starting Over at 60!

by Jeri Conklin

Who in their right mind decides to get a puppy at age 60? My life is settled, my days peaceful and calm. I am a writer, a soon-to-be published author. My daily routine requires large blocks of writing time. On occasion, I even get to sleep in late, taking a power nap or two throughout the day. Why would I want to change any of that by getting a new puppy?

Having gone to meet my friend Suzanne at a dog show in June, I can only say, "I caught the show bug." I remembered how much fun I had showing my own Brittanys before the last one passed in 2003. One call to Nancy, another friend in Washington State, was all it took. She had a name before I ever saw her photo, "Ginny" (aka KWK Windswept Guinevere of Camelot). After a ten and a half hour drive from Northern California to Ellensburg, WA, Ginny began her journey home to my family.

The first twenty-four hours at home reminded me of how much I had forgotten about "Ginny proofing" the floors. While crate training was at the top of my list as I planned on showing Ginny, having listened to her non-stop crying from her crate all the way home, put that idea on hold for the time being. I needed sleep badly. Going to Plan B, I let her sleep with me.

In the past, my other Brittanys would just snuggle up and sleep all night on the bed with me. Plan B went into effect that first night home. At 1:23AM, we were wide awake. I stood on the wet grass barefooted and freezing, while Ginny peed and poo'd. Stumbling back to bed I prayed she would settle down and go right back to sleep. It would be another week before that actually happened.

We have two couches, one for the humans, and one for my partially blind dog, Yoda. Of course Ginny choose Yoda's couch to make her own. Yoda reluctantly switched couches, but Ginny quickly learned that if she ran and took a flying leap, she could get up on the couch and irritate Yoda. Several close-call snaps later, I had Yoda's couch perched up on 12" blocks of wood. Ginny hasn't been able to leap that far this week. Next week will be another story.

I learned in that first week with the puppy, that I would sleep when Ginny slept; get my chores done as quietly as possible, as Ginny slept; eat meals when Ginny slept and spend hours outside watching Ginny play with the flowers, chasing bees and cats. No writing this week.

The indoor cats quickly became outdoor cats when Ginny came. I'm not so sure they didn't plot revenge last week. I had left Ginny in the hallway, ensconced within two very tall baby gates.

I wasn't gone long, but when I came home I knew something was wrong as I didn't hear Ginny's high pitched crying. How she could have gotten out of the gates, I had no clue. But then, Ginny is a Brittany first and a fairy dog second, so anything is possible! I searched the house, convinced that someone had broken in, skipped all the computers and jewelry, and just stolen Ginny. As I walked past the front door calling her name, I heard her little bark. I opened the front door and there was Ginny, sitting on the front porch, just waiting for me to find her.

While there is a very small cat door in the laundry room leading from the house to the garage, and a very small cat door from the garage to the outside world, I think now, the cats came and got her, leading her through the openings. I can't see how she could have figured it out by herself. Then again, she is a Brittany.

It has been two weeks now, Ginny didn't wake up until 4:00AM this morning. We stumble out in the dark so she can pee and poo, but there was no going back to sleep this time. Ginny is up and running circles around and underneath the couch on blocks. "Oh look, the sun is coming up!" Ginny has finally snuggled down next to me on the human's couch. As I open my eyes to peek at her, she is peeking back at me with her big hazel eyes. Why did I decide to shake up my life at 60 with a new Brittany puppy? Puppy breath. Could there be any other reason?

At regional trials, when a dog places in an OPEN stake and is handled by an AMATEUR, the field trial secretary must record the AMATEUR handler's name in the AKC field trial report; otherwise, those placements will not serve as a qualification for the Amateur Championship.

TRAININ' DOGS with Rick Smith

by Rick Smith & Sharon Potter

When Is It the Dog's Fault?

We're absolutely convinced that there is a Murphy's Law of Dog Training. It goes something like this: The more you brag about how good your dog is, the more training your dog will forget. As a result, we try very hard to avoid telling anybody how good our dogs are, because the split-second we do, the dog will choose that moment to become a first-rate blockhead.

There are no perfect dogs. Perfection is in the eye of the beholder and everyone has their own personal ideal, so perfection becomes an abstract concept. What works for you may not please the guy across town with the same breed of dog. That doesn't mean either of you is right or wrong – you just have different expectations. That also doesn't mean perfection (at least your personal version) shouldn't be a goal; just realize that even the best-trained dog will not be perfect all the time.

Many of our columns have dealt with placing the blame for a dog's less-than-perfect performance squarely on the shoulders of the owner. And a good deal of the time, that's squarely where the blame belongs. However, there is also a time to ask the dog to accept responsibility, too – and there are times when it really is the dog's fault.

So, how do we know when it's our fault and when it's the dog's fault? If we have done a thorough job of training, and the dog consistently accepts and understands what it is supposed to do, we can say the dog is trained. Only a trained dog can be held responsible for its actions. If the dog is not a trained dog, then it cannot be at fault. For the purposes of this column, we're only going to talk about trained dogs – dogs that have been doing their job, performing well, and responding to the handler in a consistent and respectful manner.

It seems that a dog trained to this level just shouldn't make mistakes, right? Well, that would be nice, but it also wouldn't be realistic. One thing that greatly affects a dog's tendency to make mistakes is prey drive. The more prey drive a dog has (and this is a good thing!), the more likely it will be tempted to cross the line from intense to out of control. On the other hand, a dull dog rarely makes a mistake, but it also doesn't find many birds since it rarely takes the initiative to leave the handler's side.

What constitutes a mistake? Anything that costs you a shot is something the dog should not have done. Let's go through some scenarios (with apologies in advance to Jeff Foxworthy, just in case this begins to sound like a parody on his "you might be a redneck" routine.)

When a dog is turned loose and it just runs crazy because it's too excited to think straight, busting birds in the process, the dog is at fault. It should be focused on finding birds rather than running just to feel the wind flap in its ears.

When you have to go hunting for the dog instead of the dog hunting with you, the dog is at fault.

If your dog handles well out to a certain distance, then pulls its ears back, drops its tail, and bolts (often running through birds), the dog is out of control and is at fault.

The above three instances are all closely related, with all of them being about a dog that is not working for the handler. These are deliberate choices made by a dog that knows better, and definitely the dog's fault.

The next group of faults has to do with dominance behavior. Again, it shows a lack of respect for the handler as pack leader, and these are also choices a dog has made, even though it may have been trained to do otherwise. Dogs are programmed by nature to test their leaders, and they will do it – and that doesn't exclude them from being at fault when they do it. Here's a partial list of dominance issues when it's the dog's fault:

A male dog that stops to mark all the time is at fault. He's telling you and everyone else that he owns the area. He is wrong. Make him move on as soon as he begins to cock a leg. (Please note: We're not advocating never letting a male dog urinate; but if he really has to go, he will go all at once and move on, not dribble from tree to bush to fencepost – you can easily tell the difference).

Any dog that is more concerned with dominance displays than finding birds is at fault. Dominance displays include things such as wanting to bump into your leg every time it passes by, or leaning into you and standing on your foot as you prepare to turn him loose. Little signs like these tell you that the dog is trying to take control of the hunting, and none of it is ever an accident.

Another example is the dog that is on point and when you walk in to flush the bird, the dog rears back and punches out the bird because he just can't stand the excitement any longer. This dog is at fault, since it knew it was to remain steady and instead made a conscious decision to bread.

Dominance issues with other dogs also come into play here. Such things as paying more attention to working out the pecking order with a brace mate or showing aggression toward another dog are always the dog's fault. The focus should be on finding birds, not picking fights.

Running trash is another major incident that is always the dog's fault. This refers to a dog that has decided to chase a deer or a porcupine or a skunk instead of look for birds, and usually happens when there are not many birds or scent conditions are poor and the deer jumps out in front of the dog, creating temptation. It can also happen once a dog has had a chance to chase trash, or "off game." The scent of the forbidden critter can tease a dog into following the track and forgetting about its real job, which is always finding birds.

All of the above are the most obvious behaviors that are the dog's fault. They're relatively easy to spot, and also easy to correct. The difficult decision about the dog being at fault come in the form of sneaky little misbehaviors, done with intent and malice aforethought on the part of the dog. These are much the same as what we go through with rearing our children. We do our best to instill good values, but every once in awhile, the kids do something they shouldn't because they know we're not watching or can't see them. The temptation is right there and we aren't – so what can it hurt? With a bird dog, it costs you a shot, and that is not acceptable.

What kinds of misbehaviors fall into the "sneaky" category? Simple things such as failing to honor another dog's point. This is called "blinking" a back, and if you watch a dog carefully, you can tell that it is planning to blink. He will drop his head low to the ground as he runs nearby, trying to make it look like he didn't see the other dog because he was busy scenting the ground. It's subtle but obvious, especially since the bird scent is not on ground level. That in itself is a dead giveaway. This can also carry over to an actual backing situation, where the backing dog consistently gets in too close and is either stealing the point or bumping the birds. It's usually deliberate, and always the dog's fault.

Another sneaky fault is the dog on point that will covertly look around to see if you're in the area, and if you're not visible, the dog choose to bust and chase rather than wait for you. If you are within range, the dog will remain steady. Along these same lines, we have the dog that has an inordinate amount of "stop to flushes." These dogs know that as long as they stop to the flush, they won't get corrected. (Honest, Boss, it was an accident; I really didn't know that bird was there – but see how well I stopped when I saw it fly?).

Sometimes the dog is at fault and it's strictly due to lack of experience. While the training may be solidly in place, the dog hasn't had enough wild-bird contacts to know how to handle certain situations.

One example would be a relocation on a running pheasant. If the dog moves too slowly, the bird will keep running. Young, inexperienced dogs will usually run the bird up, and that is normally going to put it well out of gun range. Experience teaches a dog to push the bird harder, which will often stop the bird and freeze it, or some dogs learn to circle around in front of the bird and work it back toward the gun. If a dog keeps moving the bird, the dog is at fault.

Sometimes lack of experience learning to use the wind can put the dog at fault; other times they will deliberately misuse the wind to "accidentally" bump and chase birds. If a dog is downwind and acts birdy but gets too close and flushes the birds, that costs you a shot and the dog was wrong. Let's say the dog is running a fence line, tree line, ditch, etc. and is always on the upwind side of that objective, flushing birds on the way. The dog is at fault, because it failed to use the wind to help you find birds. It was working for itself, and not for you.

Retrieving is another area where the dog makes deliberate decisions to misbehave. The obvious problem here is a dog that chooses to eat a bird instead of bringing it to you. That's definitely a poor choice, and always the dog's fault. Even more subtle behaviors like mouthing or rolling a bird, dropping, refusal to pick up, and so on are the dog's fault, if the retrieve has been thoroughly trained. A dog that breaks to steal another dog's retrieve is also in error.

If you've done your homework as a trainer and your dog accepts your authority, hopefully these situations will be few and far between. But when they do crop up, and they will, you'll be able to place the blame where it belongs and deal with the situation accordingly.

DEALING WITH THUNDERSTORM PHOBIAS

Summer is here and in addition to sunshine and summer fun comes thunderstorms.

For many dogs, thunderstorm phobias are a big problem. Changes in the barometric pressure, the loud crack of thunder, the sounds of wind and hard rain, and flashes of lightening can all cause fearful reactions. Panting, pacing, drooling, quivering, and trying to hide are some of the signs your dog has developed a fear of storms. In some cases, dogs who have no issues with storms develop a fear later in life.

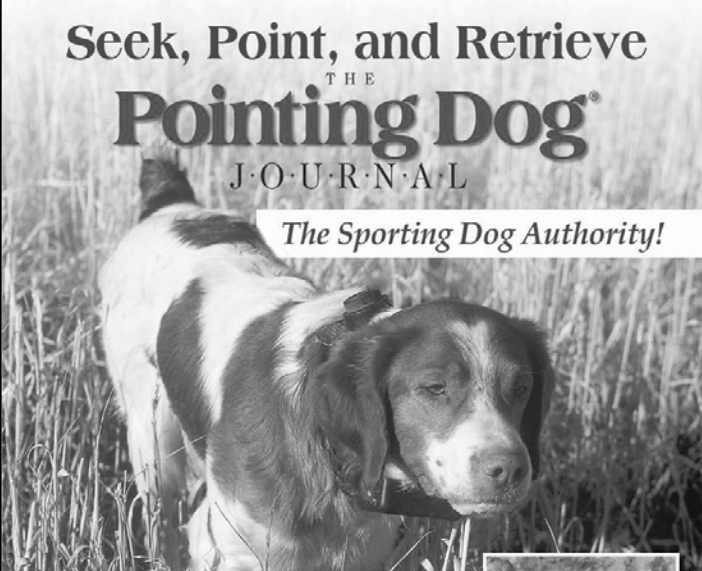

There are some things you can do if your dog is thunderstorm phobic.

1. Maintain a cool and level head yourself. Use a cheerful voice, don't act afraid, and don't baby the dog.
2. Even though you may not like your dog drooling on you and shedding large amounts of hair from stress, don't show any signs of being upset with your dog.
3. Reduce the sound of the storm by turning on the television or radio and moving to a room that is quiet.
4. Try an activity that can distract your dog such as ball play or another favorite indoor activity.
5. For many dogs who are afraid of storms, offering a safe "den like" place is a great solution. Cover the dog's crate with a sheet, or give your dog access to a room with no windows such as a bathroom.

You can also use a CD of thunderstorm noises to desensitize your dog to storm sounds. Finally, in extreme cases where the dog can actually get hurt, it may be necessary to talk to your veterinarian about the possibility of medication.

ABC 2011 Eastern Futurity

May 9 & 10

Show – Harrisville Volunteer Fire Company, Harrisville, PA

Field – Pennsylvania Brittany Club, Harrisville, PA

After many years of discussion, planning and work, the Pennsylvania Brittany Club was finally prepared to host the Eastern Futurity for the first time! We added a new section of course, increased the number of electrical hook-ups available, planted and seeded the course and prepared to welcome all for 5 days of field and show competition. It rained for most of the two weeks prior to the start of the events but, about a day and a half before everybody started pulling in, the skies cleared and the sun came out and we were treated with 5 stunning May days! A special thanks to Purina and Tri-Tronics for sponsoring the ABC Futurity program and to the hard working members of the PA Brittany Club who had the entire Eastern weekend running smoothly for all to enjoy!

The activities began with the Pennsylvania Brittany Club trial on May 6-8. As the entries started to come in from Vermont, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, North Carolina, South Carolina, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and even California we began to get a little concerned about parking at the grounds, particularly for all those camping. But, due to careful planning by our grounds chairman Steve Tubach, we not only got everybody parked but also hooked up to electrical service as well. And, on a beautiful spring morning, we started running dogs!

The futurity began on Monday, May 9 with the show held at the Harrisville Fire Company building in the great little town of Harrisville, PA just 10 miles from the Pennsylvania Brittany Club. This was the first time that a dog show was held in this facility but the beautiful spacious hall with a large parking lot worked well for the futurity show and specialty show that followed. The fire hall auxiliary sold sandwiches for lunch and provided the banquet that followed the show later in the evening.

34 young dogs came into the ring and were examined and gated for Dee Hempfield from Ohio who also judged the gun dog competition the next day. When the competition was over, Best in Futurity was awarded to Shamrock Rival's Easy Rider expertly presented by junior handler Megan Rosener. Best of Opposite Sex went to the lovely and accomplished bitch, CH Mt. View's Lady Day, JH, handled by Linda McCartney Roy. Second money male was awarded to CH Goldstar's Merlin Merlot handled by Gina Currier and third money to High Hopes Big Gamble handled by his owner Allison Riedl. Dan Riedl would go on to handle High Hopes Big Gamble to 1st place in the all age field futurity to capture the dual dog award. The nod for second money female went to the liver & white bitch, CH Wild Mtn's May Your Dreams Come True handled by her owner, Melody Rottman and third money female went to CH Goldstar's Mad About You handled by Gina Currier. The competition was stiff particularly in the large intermediate classes, which had 13 and 8 entries. The judge commented on the good quality of the overall entry and that there were some very nice dogs that didn't receive ribbons in the larger classes.

2011 Eastern Futurity All Age Competition

May 10, 2011

By Helen Riggie

The morning dawned mostly clear with a scattering of clouds as the All Age Futurity contenders made ready to make their run for the roses. Judges Dr Ron Harling and Tom Robin were in the saddle to enjoy the show and to eventually decide on the best dogs of the day in this stake. Every brace had bird contact & 15 great AA potential Derby dogs came to the line.

BRACE 1 – WINDSWEPT'S FIRST IN LINE/Jeff Currier HIGH HOPES' DARK NITE/ Cindy Cropek

As expected, the breakway was fast and hard, both dogs taking to the front easily and keeping a good pace. Shorty (Currier) had a nice consistent run, making game and working into the gas line as we came into the new course turn and crossed the creek. He was handled back to within sight, working his woodline well, finally establishing point at turn 2 of the new course, in the corner. A bird was eventually produced & Shorty kept his run strong all the way around. Joey (Cropek) was an eager hunter with speed to spare, and became sticky as we came across the rock wall where he found, pointed and put birds in the air twice. He handled his course with the typical enthusiasm of a young dog, mostly staying to the front and displaying a good run.

BRACE 2- TNT'S RAIS'N A RUCKUS/Tommy Thomas HIGH HOPE'S BIG GAMBLE/Dan Riedl

This brace had the most bird contact of the day but it was contact made by two very efficient hunters, rather than happenstance. Rae (Thomas) had 4 total finds and Riley (Riedl) had 3 to his credit at the end of the 30 minutes. Rae and Riley seemed evenly matched as they head raced from the breakaway to the bottom of the 2nd field where both dogs established their 1st point. The 2nd stylish point for Riley was in the orchard and for Rae in the edge of the island. At the creek crossing to the new course, Riley's handle fell off a tad and had his scout scrambling along the gas line to bring him back into the front view which was accomplished just shy of the second creek crossing midway up. Rae continued to hunt and run the front happily. Riley finished well forward running hard.

BRACE 3- KINWASHKLY STOLEN DIAMOND/Darlene Dow MAXIMUM OVERDRIVE II/Troy Hoverter

This proved an interesting brace, with plenty of solid broke birdwork from Max (Hoverter) while Di (Dow) was off and running with the wind from the get go. Di did return to judgment  $\frac{3}{4}$  of the way around the course and did show herself to the front, pointing beautifully on the edge of the woods as we headed towards the island and final go round of the orchard field. Max, on the other hand, stretched in places and settled into hunting in others, showing both the work that handler Troy has put into him to date as well as the dog's willingness to be a team player and hunt for his handler where warranted.

BRACE 4- TNT'S MEDICINE MAN/Tommy Thomas SUEMAC'S COOS KAOS/ Roger Mc Pherson

These two dogs seemed nicely paired as both dogs took the front and kept a nice consistent pace all the way around. While not really exhibiting that great independence we like to see in the All Age contender, these two dogs kept a good range, yet handled kindly with enough spark to keep one's attention. Unfortunately Doc (Thomas) ended up finishing his run birdless and K (McPherson) had a single find to her credit, handling her bird with near perfect manners.

Third Money Female
CH GOLDSTAR'S MAD ABOUT YOU

Best in Futurity
SHAMROCK RIVAL'S EASY RIDER

Best of Opposite Sex
CH MT. VIEW'S LADY DAY

BRACE 5 – CH. WINDSWEPT'S AIN'T MISBEHAVIN/Jeff Currier
GREEN MOUNTAIN LUCY/Mike Blondin

Missy (Currier) and her running mate Lucy started the brace with a bang, showing us what girl power is capable of! After the initial blast off however, it seemed to be that Lucy (Blondin) had turned off her ears and began to hunt for herself. She was leashed at 20 by order of her handler after she rooted, chased and caught a bird. Until that point, however, she was enjoyable to watch! Missy (Currier) on the other hand was all business as she settled in to hunt the course, outer edges, inner edges and everything in between in a snappy, happy and vigorous fashion. She established point 3 times and 3 times she allowed her handler to flush the birds for her. She had a nice run, was consistently forward with just enough independence to show the world what classy looked like!

BRACE 6 – COVEYRISE MY GAL SAL/Bruce Conover
WINDSWEPT'S JOHNNY BE GOOD/Jeff Currier

Sally (Conover) was all over the place, taking off at the breakaway nicely and hunting hard, as well as independently. On the far side of the orchard, she scooped a dead bird, retrieving to Bruce with only a minimal of coaxing. She was released to hunt some more, but given all the opportunity and her desire to hunt, it was unfortunate that Sal did not have any more birds through out the remainder of her brace. Johnny ran well, and handled kindly for the majority of his 30 minutes. He established point which resulted in birdwork twice, once on the way out at the edge of the island and again on the way back in near the same place (same bird perhaps?). He did have one other established point in the corner of the new course, but no bird was ever produced.

BRACE 7- HI TAILS STASH FOR CASH/Don Augustine WILD MTN'S ALL THAT/Brian Riggle

The words BIG RUN can only be used to describe this brace. Stash (Augustine) and Tucker (Riggle) blasted off the breakaway and carried themselves straight thru the chute to the new course in what seemed like 3 seconds flat. Both handlers were singing at the top of their lungs as the scouts were dispatched to help ensure that these two rocket-ship pups came forward. At the bottom of Field 2 handler Augustine became worried and stuck himself in one place for just a tad too long. He was encouraged to keep riding. Fortunately for Don, Stash managed his way back into judgment just in the nick of time, finding and sticking one bird while bracemate Tucker had pushed all the way thru the new course backwards, back into camp, and back out again before he was finally rodeoed back onto the course with his handler. Tucker showed up with no time to spare (in fact he was gone too long for the judges) and made his appearance as handler Brian was about to give up and pull the Garmin. Tucker handled better for the remainder of the brace, finding and pointing 2 birds before time was called.

BRACE 8- WINDSWEPT'S THREE SPOTS RUNNING WILD/Jeff Currier

Taz ran as a Bye & had a good, consistent, forward run. His first find produced the bird without the benefit of a stop to point, as the wind carried the dog into the bird and it flushed wild just ahead of the dog's nose. He was encouraged to leave the bird alone and to continue his race, which he did with relative ease in handling taking Jeff around the course with a smooth running style and hard hunting abilities. Taz eventually found a second bird, this time coming into a nice tight and stylish point. He finished his 30 minutes as strongly and as forward as he started.

This concluded the All Age portion of the Futurity field events, and resulted in the crowning of High Hope's Big Gamble, handled by Dan Riedl as the top dog of the day for the blue.

- 1 - HIGH HOPES BIG GAMBLE (D), by NFC/DC/AFC Gamblers Ace in the Hole x NAGDC/FC/AFC High Hopes Fly By Nite; o Dan & Allison Riedl, h Dan Riedl

- 2 - CH WINDSWEPT'S AIN'T MISBEHAVIN (F), by NAGDC/DC/AFC Triumphant's To Hot To Handle x Killdee's Anticipation; o Janet Garrell & Jeff Currier, h Jeff Currier
- 3 - WINDSWEPT'S THREE SPOTS RUNNING WILD (D), by NAGDC/DC/AFC Triumphant's To Hot To Handle x Killdee's Anticipation; o Debi & Joe Martirone, Jeff & Gina Currier, h Jeff Currier
- 4 - HI TAIL'S STASH OF CASH (D), by NFC/DC/AFC Gamblers Ace in the Hole x NAGDC/FC/AFC High Hopes Fly By Nite; o Don & Marilyn Augustine, h Don Augustine

Interesting and so important to the Futurity ideal was the fact that #1 and #4 were litter mates from the breeding of NFC/DC/AFC Gambler's Ace in the Hole x NAGDC/FC/AFC High Hope's Fly By Nite AND #2 & #3 were also littermates from the breeding of NAGDC/DC/AFC Triumphant's Too Hot To Handle x FC Killdee's Anticipation. The breeders of these two litters, Al & Cindy Cropek and Janet Garrell, as well as the owners of these 4 pups have earned themselves some wonderful bragging rights! Congratulations to ALL.

Eastern Gun Dog Futurity

May 10, 2011

By Steve Lauterbach

The Eastern Gun Dog Futurity was the culmination of five days of great weather, friendship, and fine dogs. We were fortunate to have fine weather for the entire five-day event, including the field trial and show. Judges for the event were Bruce Conover, a highly respected field trial judge from Virginia and Dee Hempfield, who also judged the futurity show the previous day, proving her commitment to the dual Brittany.

The running:

BRACE 1-HIGH HOPES ROC BY NITE (Al Cropek)

SHARP TAIL'S TIME WELL WASTED (Brian Riggle)

Breakaway under partly sunny skies, temperature 65 degrees, a bit warm but still comfortable for running dogs. Both dogs take the field to the left, Paisley coming with her handler quickly. Roc takes the edge out of sight and scout is dispatched. Roc was returned at five, from then on, taking the outer edges of the course usually within eyesight. Al was handling calmly trusting his dog to show up where needed. Roc continually rewarded Al's confidence. At the end of the new course, Roc made a 300 yard cast to the end, took the left edge, and met Al up front as we went through the woods; a very mature shooting dog move. Unfortunately, Roc ended the brace birdless. Paisley was the shorter of the two, settling in at a nice gun dog range. She hunted the woods edge on the new course, always being forward and requiring little handling. Paisley had finds at 20 and 27, on the first find showing excellent derby manners and very nice style. She finished going forward at the 30 mark. The bar had been set.

BRACE 2-SWIFT RIVER'S VICTORY OF BRETAGNE (Wendy Archinal)
SHAMROCK RIVAL'S KADIE'S COUNTRY NITE (Mark Morris)

The sun shone a little brighter for the second brace, making it a tad warmer. Both dogs were hunting at short to medium range and responding well to their handlers. As we entered the new course, both dogs were seen under a bird. Unfortunately, no definitive point was seen. Both dogs continued at medium range through the new course, shortening a bit due to the heat. Penny was the slightly wider of the two. As we headed back toward the clubhouse, Kadie had a find at 28, with acceptable derby manners.

BRACE 3-TELFARE'S LADY TARA'S RUM ROYALE (Jeanne Telfare)
SPRING HILL'S HOT WHEELS (John Bell)

This brace proved to be a lot of fun for those fortunate to be present. Wheels had a stylish find at 1 in the island on the breakaway. Royale joined him on point and eventually helped John flush the bird. Wheels stood proudly throughout. Royale went on to have finds at 7, 12, 15, and 18. She was consistently fast and forward, although slightly erratic. She displayed excellent ground speed and nice adult manners on her find at 18. Wheels hunted smartly for his handler and was fast and forward with little or no instruction. In addition to his beautiful broke find at 1, he had finds at 21 and 23, again showing excellent adult manners. On his last find, he stood while his brace mate came in and put up the bird. A "whoa" from John is all that was needed to stop Wheels. Both dogs finished forward as time was called. It should be noted that Wheels' style and intensity were unmatched in the stake.

BRACE 4-CASTLE COMIN' ON STRONG-TRACE (Charlie Walters)
WILD MTN'S. MAY YOUR DREAMS COME TRUE-TINK
(Melody Rottmann)

As the clouds begin to dissipate, both dogs are released and hunt at moderate range for their handlers. Tink is rewarded with a find at 5 on the left woods edge. Both dogs maintained a forward hunting pattern at moderate range, with Tink being the faster and the wider of the two. She was rewarded with her second find at 10, again showing mature derby manners and excellent style. Both dogs made nice casts on the second part of the course as we moved toward the clubhouse. Unfortunately, Trace is to finish his half-hour birdless.

BRACE 5-AMMO'S THE SHOW THAT NEVER ENDS-Emerson
(Julie Nelson)
WILD MTN'S. ABSOLUTELY JUSTIFIED-JUDE (Brian Riggle)

At two minutes off the breakaway, Emerson is found on point in the island off to the right with excellent style, displaying mature derby manners in her bird work. Both dogs settle into a nice forward hunting pattern in the new course, with Emerson being the wider of the two. Emerson continued hunting forward with a fast and snappy gait. Her application was rewarded by a second find at 28, which resembled the first find in her style and maturity. She finished strong, going forward to end the half hour. Jude had two bird contacts through the new course, the first a beautiful retrieve to Brian. Immediately following, he ran over a bird and unfortunately did not have the opportunity to point. Going back through the old course just prior to time, Jude was seen pointing at 24, with acceptable derby manners. As did Emerson, he ended the half hour strong and forward in the growing heat of the day.

BRACE 6-SWIFT RIVER'S NO MAN IS AN ISLAND-GILLIGAN
(Wendy Archinal)
CASTLE STAR SPANGLED BANNER (Rick Perez)

Both dogs broke away fast and forward through the first field and up into the new course. As we rounded the corner, both dogs were seen under a bird. No definitive point was appreciated. This bird would prove to be Banner's undoing. As he started to retrieve the bird to handler Rick, he decided that a game of "Keep Away" would be more fun. This unfortunately would occupy his attention for the remainder of the brace. Gilligan maintained a short to moderate hunting pattern for the remainder of the brace. He had one additional bird contact at 18 but was not seen on point.

BRACE 7-FIN MACCUHAL-MAC (Bill Gorman)
COUNTRY ROAD'S ON THE ROX-BUCKLEY (John Orr)

Both dogs broke away strong to the front. Mac took the lateral left edge and met us at the front at the beginning of the new course. Buckley scored with a stylish find at 4. This was quite possibly the warmest brace of the stake and the heat began affecting Buckley just a bit before we got to the creek crossing. Buckley continued hunting hard and had one additional bird contact just prior to time. No point, however, was seen. Once Mac joined us at the beginning of the new course, he was forward at moderate range. Mac got stronger and wider as the brace continued. He quartered the fields well to the front, yet remained highly responsive to his handler's directions. He was rewarded with finds at 13, 14, and 20. After the find at 20, Mac made a beautiful cast down the right edge of the course. He slammed into a stylish point as he reached the end of the line. He finished strong as time was called.

BRACE 8-HIPOINT'S SUMMER TIME (Ron Gulembo)
SHAMROCK'S RIVAL'S EASY RIDER-HARLEY (Mark Morris)

The clouds begin to roll in at the beginning of the eighth brace, however it is still quite warm for running dogs. Harley was moderate to short throughout the brace and seemed to be affected by the heat just before the halfway point. He finished his half-hour birdless. Summer was strong off the breakaway and was rewarded with a find at one minute. After Ron adjusted her compass at the beginning of the new course, she remained fast and forward for the entire thirty minutes. She was rewarded with a second find at 17, just inside the woods edge on the left hand side of the new course. She maintained a fast gun dog/shooting dog race that resulted with a final find at 25. This find, as well as her first two, was stylish with mature derby manners. Her performance, as that of the other placing dogs, was a pleasure to watch. She was still reaching forward as time was called.

BRACE 9-LOCKRIDGE-SARADAC'S MG OF DIAMOND HILL-MEG (Larry Hilliard)

TNT's Sirius Mo-Mentum (Tommy Thomas)

Meg was seen going left after the breakaway. She was returned immediately and carded a stylish find at 3. She had another find at 8, displaying mature derby manners, again with very nice style. Mo was not pleasing Tommy today and he elected to end his bid. Through the new course, Meg continued finding birds just inside the woods edge. Unfortunately with each find, she began digging deeper into the woods and became harder to handle. After several more stylish finds in the woods, she finished strong. Although she didn't place in this stake, she exhibited her potential as a classy future gun dog.

BRACE 10-BOUDREAUX'S MICRO BULLET- MONA (Darlene Dow)

MILLETTE'S SWEET MEMORIES- AGGIE (Wendy Archinal)

Cloud cover began to thicken substantially as the last brace was released. It has become noticeably cooler. Mona was the faster and the wider of the two. However, she like Meg in the brace before quickly learned where to go to find birds. She dug into the woods on a bird-finding mission. She carded several finds but in the process became somewhat difficult to handle. Her snappy gait and ground speed were appreciated by all in the gallery. Aggie maintained a short to moderate ground race and was affected by the continued heat of the day at 15. She unfortunately ended her thirty minutes birdless.

Dual Award
HIGH HOPES BIG GAMBLE with owners Dan & Allison Riedl

Post Script--

It was due to the efforts of many club members and with the assistance of others from across the country that a three-day field trial, specialty show and futurity went along so smoothly. It all began MANY months ago when I began to call and email prospective judges. Amazingly, the widely experienced group of Brittany enthusiasts that I contacted all said, "YES"! It was due to their generosity and dedication that we were able to assemble such a fine panel of judges for the entire 5 days of events.

We realize how very fortunate we are at the Pennsylvania Brittany Club to have a fantastic group of hard-working members! The list of workers is lengthy but all deserve recognition for their efforts. First of all the futurity committee of Sandy Sargent, Steve Tubach, Steve Lauterbach, Kristi Anglen, and Dan Reidl who helped with all the planning and dealt with ALL my emails and meetings! Sandy was there to keep us all on track and remember what I forgot. Steve Lauterbach did the write-up for the gun dog futurity and managed the trial with the help of his wife Mary. Kristi Anglen ran the specialty show with the help of husband Carl. And Steve Tubach spent MANY hours preparing the grounds and was the official "parking nazi"! Marilyn Skorik provided breakfast and lunch at the trial and during the field futurity and planned the spaghetti dinner for Friday evening and Jim Skorik helped with grounds preparation and parking. Vic Mazzocchi planned and prepared fixings for the steak dinner on Sunday evening and was our resident "diplomat" when the game commission came to "visit." Joe Haubach set up the bathing station at the grounds and drove the "people wagon" during the gun dog futurity. Jimmy Johnson and John Chokran donated items for the grounds raffle and Jimmy assisted with set up at the show site. Helen Riggle did the write-up for the all age futurity, set up the futurity grooming raffle and prepared gift bags for the futurity show. Terry and Larry Hilliard brought the mats and gates for the show ring. Andre Coloumbe was our photographer for the futurity and took pictures during all the 5 days of events. Al Crokek picked up and delivered the birds. Dan Rein and Les Casselberry were in charge of bird planters for the trial and Dan donated charcoal and cleaning items for the club. Chris Rider and Steve Tubach planted all the birds for the field futurity. AND, I must not forget, Ed Lehosky, who put up with all the chaos in our household both during, before and after the events and was always available to help where needed. If I forgot anyone, please accept my sincere apology.

When we look back on the Eastern Futurity of 2011 we might forget who the winning dogs were (unless one was yours!), who judged, where we parked, and what food was served but what we will ALWAYS remember was the great time we all had, particularly the campfires each evening! Now, I'm looking forward to going to Maryland next spring and just running a couple dogs.....

2011 FUTURITY OVERVIEW

by Judy Graves, Futurity Secretary

By all measurements, 2011 was a very successful year for the futurity program. At a time when we have seen the economy take its toll on our regional trials, entries and the number of dogs in the program increased over the last two years. Even though total numbers of litters and breeders has declined from the 2006/2008 levels, we can say this past year has seen a marked increase in the number of forfeits paid as well as actual entries. Our participation levels of forfeits paid to pups produced was 45% - up from 37% in years past. Actual entries were a whopping 71% of forfeits paid. Annual averages have been running in the 60% range since I have been keeping records.

Excellence breeds excellence has never been more evident than in this year's breeders program. There were 27 different breeders whose pups captured the 45 placements offered in the three sections. Leading the top of the list was Al & Cindy Cropek from Commeautville, PA. Their breeding of NAGD/DC/AFC High Hopes Fly By Nite x NFC/DC/AFC Gamblers Ace In The Hole produced three winners garnering a total of six placements in the Central & Eastern Regions. The next closest breeder was Tana Kradolfer of Belgrade, MT. Two dogs from her litter of Trugritz Sagacious Brier x DC/AFC J.C. Brett Jared O'Dee brought home four placements won at the Central and Western Regions. Tana was the Central Dual Dog breeder and Al and Cindy took the Eastern Dual Dog breeder award home.

As we look to next year, we have 86 breeders whelping 102 litters which produced 627 pups. Host clubs and their section managers for next year's program are: Eastern: Maryland Brittany Club, Lou Palazzolo, Central: LaSalle Brittany Club, Paul Katzell and Western: Oregon Brittany Club, Jim House. We wish to thank everyone who expressed an interest in hosting and hope they will continue to come forward.

Field Trials

East Coast

SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND Arcadia Management Area Exeter, RI June 4-5, 2011

The Southern New England Brittany Club held its spring walking field trial June 4 & 5, 2011 at the John Stolgitis Field Trial Area located in the 14 thousand acre Arcadia Management area in Exeter, Rhode Island. This venue is extremely well suited for walking trials, being several hundred acres of flat ground covered by long narrow fields separated by open hardwoods. The State of Rhode Island has done a great job in keeping the trial courses well groomed and installing multiple feed strips. This being the last trial of the spring season, the weather could have been extremely hot and humid but the weather gods smiled on us and gave us great weather for both days. The mornings started out in the forties each day and climbed into the seventies by midday. Cool ocean breezes each afternoon provided for good scenting conditions. It appeared that we were going to have a light entry this year because at Wednesday noon the day of the drawing we only had forty entries but by the time of closing at five PM we had received 73 entries. A lot of people waited until the last minute to enter to get a better idea of how hot the weather would be for the weekend. It was great to see a large group of kids at the trial; it reminded us of years past when it was common to have families attending the trials and the kids enjoying themselves in the outdoors. There was a great buffet dinner after Saturday's running put on by the club members that was enjoyed by all. We want to thank all the people who pitched in and helped to make this a very enjoyable and smooth running trial. Thanks also to all our judges and participants. The results are listed below.

ST. CROIX VALLEY Four Brooks Wildlife Management Milaca, MN June 4-5, 2011

The St. Croix Valley Brittany Club held its spring walking trial at Four Brooks Wildlife Management Area near Milaca, Minnesota the first weekend in June 2011. The temperatures were in the 80s with a breeze for the most part. After all the spring rains if you didn't have high rubber boots or Gore-Tex boots you would be sure to get wet when walking the course.

51 dogs were run over the two-day trial. Thank you John Chejne for picking up those smelly birds! We had excellent bird planters with Denise Koslowski, Steve Ralph, Dan Voss, and Matt Eder making sure birds were placed throughout the single course.

Exceptional meals were available for breakfast, lunch and dinner on Saturday and breakfast and lunch on Sunday. They included coffee, Eileen's famous sticky buns, pancakes, sausage and eggs, smoked pulled pork, and venison that one of the club members, Jackie Swanson, shot herself! The main cooks included Eileen Gust, Dave Carlson, and Jackie Swanson.

A special thanks goes to those who sat in the judicial saddles: Ian MacTavish, Dan Voss, Mick Rodeghiero and Dan Erickson.

And finally St. Croix Valley Brittany Club held its fourth annual Youth Event simultaneously on Sunday where there were 8 kids, 6 dogs, and lots of fun. Matt Eder, one of the professional dog trainers, gave a short talk on dog handling. Bret Lindback planted birds and helped with the youth handlers. The kids got whistles and ribbons. With so many club members chipping in, the St. Croix Valley Brittany Club had another successful walking field trial.

The California Brittany Club held its specialty show on Sunday, May 29, 2011 in conjunction with the Los Encinos Kennel Club at the Mission Circuit show cluster in Pomona, CA. Southern California's soon to be June gloom in the morning gave us some relief from the heat and the spring-like sunny afternoon weather was warm but refreshing. We even had some rain on the morning of the specialty! All kinds of friendly faces from both the field trial and show world joined together to cheer on all of the brittany's. It was an enjoyable day to celebrate our dogs and have fun together. The four day weekend was supported on Friday by the So. San Joaquin Brittany Club and on Saturday and Monday, it was supported by the California Brittany Club.

Mrs. Marjorie R. L. Blake judged our puppy and veteran sweepstakes with gentle hands and a careful eye well trained from years in sporting breeds. For Best in Puppy Sweepstakes, she put up Brittany's Ramblin' Twilight owned and handled by Jenelle Larson and for Best of Opposite she pointed to Premier's All About Avatar owned by John Reardon. For Best Veteran Sweepstakes, she put up the oldest Brittany in the show, CH Windsong's Time of My Life owned and handled by Linda McDonald and Breanna Uyeno.

Mr. Sam Houston McDonald judged the regular classes with a ready smile and a knowing eye and that showed his years of experience in sporting dogs and his knowledge of our breed. He gave Best of Breed to GCH. Mich's Mt Ready Aim fire owned and handled by Kristina Rickard and Lori Rickard, David Peek and John Davies. Best of Opposite was handed to Ch Hope's Every Heart Beats True, CD, owned by Nancy Hewitt and handled by Valerie Nunes-Atkinson. Redline's Hunting For My Halo, owned by Doreen and Tom Kearney, handled by Roger Kibee earned the points for Winner's Dog and Mirage-RJ's Symply Sensational, owned by Joyce and Bob Wire, handled by Bill McFaddon was pointed to for Winner's Bitch and was awarded Best of Winners.

Junior handler, Jennifer Bazan, with GCH Mich's Ready Aim Fire, won second place in the open senior class to earn Best junior With A Brittany.

The specialty show, of course, could not have been held without the hardworking committee who did a superb job under show chairperson Linda McDonald. Beautiful trophies created by Gail Richardson at SGR Galleries were chosen with care by Dena Miller and Linda McDonald. Sabrina Arney created a beautiful trophy presentation ringside that was commented on by many exhibitors from other breeds who passed by. Deborah Frane worked diligently to obtain trophy donations. Our delicious potluck and morning ringside hospitality was organized by Sheri Harder and Nancy Hewitt. Dena Miller and Sabrina Arney worked hard to put just the right finishing touches on a beautiful raffle. Margaret Horstmeyer worked tirelessly the morning of the show, lending that always needed last minute hand with absolutely everything! The club's supplies and equipment were moved back and forth from our club trailer by the tireless efforts of Mark Ambre. Nancy Hewitt also organized our celebration dessert for the club members' brittany's who earned their conformation titles last year. We celebrated new conformation titles for GCH TK's Good Golly Miss Molly CD owned by Carl and Dena Miller, CH Hope's Every Heart Beats True CD owned by Nancy Hewitt, CH Tru's Red Baron of Willowwick owned by Marc and Vicki Rittner, GCH Britt's Ramblin the Perfect Cut owned by Sue Richards and Jenelle Larson, DC AFC Megasmoke grand Finale owned by Myra Dawn Ellis, CH Granmars One Rough Diamond owned by Doyel and Elaine Price, CH Exebrit's Feather River Fred owned by Susan Kerns, CH Burford's Somewhere In Time owned by Lynda Evans and CH Liz's Angel Gets Her Wings owned by Doreen Kearney.

Thanks to all who came to make our specialty a success, including judges, competitors, trophy donors, raffle contributors, and all of the hardworking club members and enthusiasts. The show couldn't go on without everyone!

MEMBERS OF THE AMERICAN BRITTANY CLUB

Give the gift of a new membership... to give the opportunity to someone to learn about and participate in the American Brittany Club.

This membership campaign is really quite simple, we are asking every member to donate/sponsor a membership in the American Brittany Club. This "gifted" membership might be to a puppy purchaser, or a friend/acquaintance who has a Brittany. All of us encounter people who may just need a little encouragement to become members.

This can work, but it is totally dependent upon your support. Please use the ABC application form in the back of the magazine to enroll a new member today. You may donate/sponsor multiple new memberships. The names of new members & ABC sponsors will be published in the magazine on a quarterly basis.

THIS IS OUR CHANCE TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE!
