To promote cooperation and friendship among the breeders and owners of Brittanys and to encourage higher standards in breeding, training and showing of Brittanys in the field and in the show ring; to discourage the breed from becoming split into groups of "field dogs" and "show dogs" and to strive to keep it forever a "dual dog".

TRAININ' DOGS

with Rick Smith

Rick Smith has spent a lifetime breeding, training, and handling National Championship bird dogs. His highly popular training seminars teach the "Silent Command System" to dog owners world-wide. During hunting season, Rick can be found on the Mariposa Ranch in south Texas.

Sharon Potter has a strong background in animal behavior, and has been training both horses and dogs for many years, with several National titles to her credit. She is an avid hunter and archer, and in her spare time is working on the first of a series of books on bird dog training with Rick Smith.

The Whoa-Post Redux Part Two

In our last column, we gave you the foundation for teaching "whoa" using the whoa-post, and now it's time to move to the finishing steps that take it to the field. This can't happen until the dog is completely finished with the post as described in our last column – don't be tempted to rush it! So far, we've developed a point of contact on the dog's flank, and our dog understands the difference between just having a rope around the flank and actually being stimulated by the rope. Now it's time to add the e-collar as our stimulation for the flank instead of the rope.

You'll want your dog quartering on a checkcord for the time being. The e-collar will be placed around the dog's flank or waist, with the contact points on the belly. If your dog is male, be sure the collar is placed ahead of his sheath. Adjust the collar so the points are snug against the skin, much like having it on the neck. Once the dog has moved a bit, check the collar and snug it up as needed, as it will often loosen up, much like the girth on a saddle will when a horse lets its air out.

This dog has been stopped for the first time with the collar on the flank and the dog on a checkcord. The upright tail (or what there is of the tail!) shows the dog is still enthusiastic and accepting.

just stopping when something's around their flank, so we encourage the dog to move via the checkcord. Taking the dog to tall cover where it expects to see birds will make it want to move more freely. Having the dog move easily with the flank collar just the same as it would without is an important step, and not getting through this part before moving ahead to stimulation will set your training back and confuse your dog.

To stimulate the dog into stopping, you'll need to start with the lowest setting available on your transmitter and move up until you find the level your dog responds to. And be sure to use continuous stimulation – press and hold the button – until the dog is completely stopped. If you've done your homework on the post, the dog will stop. If, however, the dog overreacts and reached around to bite at its flank, the resistance wasn't worked completely through on the post. When your dog is stopped, allow it to stand still for a minute, then go to it and give your release cue before going back to quartering. Don't stop the dog again until it is completely loosened up and moving freely. Don't be tempted to stop the dog over and over again; stopping a dog about twice during a 15-minute workout is plenty. Always quit when you're having success, and don't overdo until the dog has failed. Remember: During all this the dog has to remain perfectly still while on whoa. No happy feet or creeping ahead allowed.

Continue with these daily workouts until you are completely confident with the dog's work. At that time, we can begin introducing the verbal "whoa" cue. Say the word at the same time you press the button to stop the dog.

The next step is to set up backing situations. This is the start of teaching a dog to be steady to wing. Using another dog or a cutout, and always with a bird in a launcher, you'll checkcord your dog, then use the e-collar to stop it as soon as it has seen the other dog (or cutout) on point. The farther away from the situation your dog can back, the more easily the training will go when the bird flushes.

When your dog is stopped, you will drop the checkcord, walk past it to the pointing dog, and then flush the bird. Always keep your eye on your dog so you can stop it if necessary. Should your dog start to move, launch the bird quickly, and then wait for your dog to give chase – don't try to stop it from creeping at this point, since that can create more pressure-induced behavior problems, like blinking. Besides, creeping can be cleaned up later; right now, we want to take the chase away from the dog.

How do we define chase? When the bird is in the air and the dog has committed to chasing it. Here's where the rule, "The level of distraction dictates the level of stimulation" comes into play: Anticipate the dog's excitement and be ready to move up in levels as needed. When you dog is backing on sight consistently and staying steady to the flush without your needing to use the collar to assist, we can start with teaching steady to shot using the same scenario.

The next step is to have your dog do the pointing. Again, you'll want a bird in a remote releaser or launcher so you can get it in the air fast if necessary. Use a checkcord to quarter your dog into the bird scent. As soon as your dog acknowledges scent, drop the checkcord. The dog will either point or go in to flush. If the dog points, flush the bird, and if the dog breaks on the flush, stop the chase just like in the backing situation.

What if your dog scents the bird and decides to run in and flush rather than point? Launch the bird fast, before the dog gets to it, and then stop the chase. Again, don't stop the creeping; instead, launch the bird and then stop the chase so you don't create pressure-induced problems.

When you can quarter in and the dog is pointing and staying steady through the flush and watching the bird fly off, you can add a shot. If you want your dog trained to be steady to shot, keep the dog standing steady. If you prefer the dog to break on shot, allow it.

When taking the chase away, how you stop the dog depends on the level of prey-chase drive in the dog. If the dog has low prey drive, let it come to a "rolling stop" by not upping the levels of stimulation too quickly, letting the dog come to a complete stop in about 30 feet instead of three. This will keep the dog receptive to training and enthusiastic. Trying to stop a low-drive dog too fast can also create pressure-induced behavior.

When the dog is pointing and holding steady to wind and shot as you desire, it's time to plant birds in launchers in a bigger area and turn the dog loose to run like a regular hunting situation. The bird work will be the same as the drills above. Periodically flush a bird before your dog has a chance to point it, since this will often happen when hunting. This teaches the dog to stop to the flush.

At the point in training where your dog can be turned loose and run on birds and is steady to wing and shot, you can start taking the creeping away, if your dog is doing it. Again, don't start on this part of the training until your dog has had the chase taken away first, or you'll end up with a dog that blinks birds. You'll use the flank collar just as you have been, only you'll stop the dog as it starts to creep.

We now have a dog that, assuming all the homework has been thoroughly done, is steady to wing and shot, not creeping, and is backing another dog's point. When all of the above is finished on pigeons in launchers, we can move to released pen-raised birds. This will add a little more excitement and intensity to the training sessions since gamebirds are more interesting to your dog. Practice until your dog is as proficient on released gamebirds as it is on pigeons in launchers.

We're almost done. It's now time to start shooting birds for your dog during training, but don't kill every bird the dog points. Stick to shooting about one bird out of every three. As you kill birds for the dog, it gets exciting and he will want to break or release prematurely. If you mix it up so the dog doesn't think that every bird will be shot, you'll help your dog understand that it must remain steady. Also, when you flush the bird, always watch your dog instead of the bird. Remember: This is still training, and we need to keep our eye on what our dog is doing so we can make the appropriate corrections. The training of the dog comes first.

We're well on the way to a finished dog. When these sessions are going well each and every time, we've established learned behavior, and the dog understands its job thoroughly. Now it's a simple matter to move the e-collar from the flank to the neck, since the dog understands that continuous stimulation means "stop" and the flank is no longer needed as a point of contact.

This may seem like a complicated process, but in reality all we've done is break it into easy-to-learn components for the dog, and the more we break it down, the better our dogs understand and learn it. The thing to remember is to take your time and polish each step before moving on; this isn't something that can be done in a weekend. The more repetitions you do, the stronger the positive habit you're creating becomes.

Plus, with autumn and hunting season right around the corner, just imagine how much fun it will be to hunt over that classy, finished bird dog. The better trained your dog is, the more shots you'll get, and that makes for a great partnership in the field.

Here's a good example of working on backing drills, again with the collar on the flank.

Correction to last issue's article: In the sentence reading "At this point, walk up wrapping your checkcord hand over hand and keeping slight tension so you can immediately stimulate should the dog move," the word "wrapping" should not have been included. Never wrap up the checkcord unless you're putting it away for the day. The checkcord is always left to trail behind us.

FOLLOWING MEG ON TRACK

By Jim Bryson, Texas Coastal Brittany Club

In a previous article, Carla Simon wrote about when Meg got her MACH, when I said "Not sure where we go from here, but the journey will be full of fun with Meg". Our agility journey has continued since then with Meg getting her MAD (Master Agility Dog) in USDAA and we are very close to her ADCH (Agility Dog Champion).

Our next journey has taken a different twist in we have started training in tracking. This is a completely different approach, as I'm the one being trained and I have to learn to follow Meg's signals instead of her following my signals. It is really a sport where the dog has the knowledge of where we are going and the human must learn to read the signals that the dog is giving. It is truly fascinating to watch as the dogs figure out what is going on. You cannot be a dope on a rope and be successful in this sport. Some dogs have a very deliberate way of tracking and other dogs attack the trail and really go after the track. For those of you that have seen Meg do agility you can guess she is one of the latter.

AKC tracking has been active for a very long time. The first tracking test was given on September 13, 1937 and was part of achieving the UD obedience title. The first tracking test at which a dog could earn a TD (Tracking Dog) title was held on October 7, 1947. The TDX (Tracking Dog Excellent) test was first offered in 1980 and the VST (Variable Surface Tracking) test began in 1995. Only when a dog completes all three titles are they awarded the coveted title of CT (Champion Tracker). And only Champion Trackers are invited to the AKC Tracking Invitational.

Brittanys have been one of the lowest ranked breeds in terms of tracking titles, year after year. The few that complete a TD title don't go any farther to get advanced titles. At this time there is no Champion Tracker Brittany. Photo © 2014, Donna Bryson

Meg and I enrolled in an introduction to tracking training class put on by Houston Obedience training Club Southwest Tracking Association. The instructor was Kathleen Milford, a very experienced instructor and competitor and AKC tracking judge.

It was a six week course to teach us about getting started in tracking. It was on Sunday evenings after the hot summer was over. We learned about how to handle the lead line. During tracking tests, handlers need to be at least 20 feet behind their dog. The handling of the line is very complex at that distance. The lead easily tangles and if your dog pulls very hard your hands can be burned from the lead as it passes through your hands. Classes also taught us how to navigate turns while reading the dog. Each dog has her own way of reading turns and signaling the turn and it is up to the handler to read their dog and what she is telling her handler.

Classes also touched on the rules for AKC tracking. Each class began with a discussion of the rules. Like all AKC events, when you sign the entry form you attest that you know and understand the rules. Kathleen, as an AKC tracking judge, would not allow her students to be ignorant of the rules. Yes, there were quizzes at class, as well.

After taking the class, I was fortunate to meet up with Denise McClure, a friend from agility and obedience, who is a master at tracking. She has earned 15 tracking titles on her Bernese Mountain Dog and her knowledge has been a great help. The fact that her dogs are hard drivers at tracking has been invaluable in handling Meg.

We are presently getting ready for our certification track. Before teams can enter a Tracking Test, they must be certified by an AKC tracking judge that they can do a test. Teams that pass are given four certificates, to submit alongside entries for licensed AKC Tracking Tests. These certificates are only good for one year, and if you haven't received your TD title by then, you must recertify.

That is all for now. Our certification test is scheduled after Thanksgiving. Wish us luck!

2014 ABC New England Classic/Championship

Amateur Shooting Dog Championship (L-R) Judge Mitch Swierczynski, Winner Bebop Heart And Soul w/ Leslie Hunt, RU Diamond Hill She's Gone w/ Lisa Pollack, Joe Sikorski, Hit's All Jack'D Up w/ Claire Ricci, Judge John Malone, Mr. P's D Evil Dog w/ John Poland

The New England Brittany Championship Association held the Amateur and Open Championships, and Derby Classic on September 22-24 at the Flaherty Field Trial Area in East Windsor, CT. The weather was glorious, with two bald eagles soaring the grounds Monday morning. The state of Connecticut DEEP did a fabulous job of mowing the grounds. Participants, owners, handlers, and judges came from ME, NH, MA, CT, RI, PA, NJ, DE, FL and even Saskatchewan. We thank Purina for their continued support of these championships. Also, thanks go to the committee: Chairman Bob Fleury, Bill Gorman, Chef Johnnie Poland, Photographer Rita Poland, Bird Planter Michele Sala, and Secretary Leslie Jane Hunt.

We thank our judges for the Amateur Championship John Malone and Mitch Swierczynski. The winner of this championship was FC/AFC Bebop Heart And Soul (Buddha) owned and handled by Leslie Jane Hunt. Buddha had five finds and a back. Runner-up was FC/AFC Diamond Hill She's Gone (Cleo) owned and handled by Lisa Pollack. Cleo had two finds, a stop to flush, and a non-productive. Third place was awarded to 2xNGDC/FC/AFC Hit's All Jack'D Up (Cruise) owned and handled by Joe Sikorski. Cruise had three finds. Fourth Place was FC/AFC Mr. P's D Evil Dog (Devil) owned and handled by John Poland. Devil had four finds and a stop to flush.

The Derby Classic was run on Tuesday with judges Judy Kiracofe and Leslie Jane Hunt. The winner was Kinwashkly Instant Replay owned and handled by Leslie Andreas and the runner-up was Shailorville's Jessie owned and handled by Robin Maule.

We appreciate our Open Championship judges Elias Richardson and the multitasking ability of Patricia Carney who not only judged the dogs but also reported. The winner was Piney Run Rex owned by Art and Judy Cohen and handled by Ben Lorenson. The runner-up was Rainbow's Chik'N Mcnugget also owned by Art and Judy Cohen and handled by Kyle Merrill. Patricia Carney's report follows:

Brace 1: Nugget (Kyle Merrill) and Thunder (Bill Gorman). Thunder had a weak breakaway and about 200 yards from the start, Bill elected to pick him up. Thunder fell victim to the bug that's been plaguing a number of the dogs this weekend and obviously wasn't feeling well and Nugget would be running his hour alone. Moving well at moderate range, Nugget, handler and gallery negotiated the first □ of the course through the pines, past the water hole and along the back of Fox Hill before encountering any contact with birds. At 18 we had just crossed the culvert when Kyle called point and we rode up to find Nugget pointing stylishly and intensely off to the right where the course breaks right. Kyle produced a covey with all in order. As we rode up the hill toward the tobacco field, Kyle steered Nugget to the right hand edge of the field, and Nugget was up to the task as we next saw him at the furthest end of the field, turning back to the course with some urging from his handler. We made it down the tobacco barn hill, across the brook and headed for the clubhouse with Nugget covering the ground well. Crossing the road, Nugget obligingly headed off to the left edge of the clubhouse field and we next saw him at the far end. It took a few seconds more for Nugget to score another find at 30 with the same style and intensity as the first. Continuing on, we arrived at Dearborn with Nugget first negotiating the right hand side of Dearborn and then coming across to hit the last half of the middle hedgerow. Kyle kept a handle on Nugget as we made the turn heading off Dearborn, finally letting him loose on the right as we made our way back to the road.

Nugget made his move off to the right as we headed across the road for Fox Hill and at 52, we held up with Kyle and scout searching for Nugget. With time to spare, Kyle spotted him at the foot of Fox Hill ahead of us. Nugget finished his hour out front under the power lines.

Brace 2: Mike (Kyle Merrill) and Rocky (Judy Kiracofe). Both dogs broke away well, reaching for the open course in front of them. First bird contact came at eight with Mike pointing in the trees behind the water hole. Judge Richardson later reported that all was in order with that find as well as the finds at 23 and 27. In the meantime, Rocky crossed from the left and headed for the cover on the right, and striking paydirt at 10. With Rocky pointing intensely, Judy had her work cut out for her with birds that were reluctant to fly at first, but eventually achieving lift off with all in order. Judge Carney continued on with Rocky who was running well to the front. We crossed the culvert and broke right, headed up the hill to the tobacco field when scout called point at 22. We road back to find Rocky standing, but Judy was unable to produce a bird. We continued on up the hill and turned left heading back to the clubhouse with Rocky in front of us. At the halfway point, as we traded off, Judge Richardson reported that Mike had his running shoes on today and with 3 finds to his credit. Unfortunately, it didn't continue quite as well for the second half hour as we traversed Dearborn. At 33 Rocky established point off to our left with Judge Richardson covering. Mike reached the far end of Dearborn with scout calling point. Kyle was unable to produce a bird for this stand and relocation, Mike was given credit for an unproductive. We made it around the turn and headed for the main course. Mike was punching through the cover on the right and popped out in front as judge Richardson returned to the front with Rocky no longer under judgment. A second unproductive was his undoing. Mike struggled to finish his hour.

Brace 3: Jack (Kyle Merrill) and Buddha (Leslie Jane Hunt). Great start with both dogs reaching for the front. We made it through the pines, past the water hole with both dogs crossing to the right. Buddha established point at 9 with Jack coming in for the back. It only took 9 minutes to get here, so both dogs were smoking their ground race. All was in order with this find. Released to the front, the gallery headed for the culvert and fork to the tobacco field with both dogs on the right and out of sight. Judge Carney spotted Jack (following a tremendous cast, talk about running shoes) at the rise just before the culvert. Jack showed up from the front as the culvert was reached. At 17, and off to the right of the fork, Buddha was found standing stylishly and well off the birds as Judge Richardson continued on to the front with Jack. Leslie produced the birds with all in order. We continued on with Buddha covering the right hand sides of the course as requested. At 25 in the minefield just before the clubhouse, with Buddha pointing, Jack was ordered up or failure to back his bracemate. Buddha's last find was at 28 in front of the clubhouse. Leslie elected to pick up as we reached Dearborn.

Brace 4: Rex (Ben Lorenson) and Cruise (Joe Sikorski). Great breakaway with both dogs running wide and for the front. Cruise hit the left hand side of the course behind the water hole and pretty much stayed there. Joe sent his scout out looking for him. Meanwhile, Rex had powered down the right hand side of the course and was found standing at 10 in cover off to the right. At the same time, with Judge Richardson covering this find, scout called point for Cruise and we road back to find him standing a covey. Cruise looked great on point and all was in order at the flush. Continuing on, we crossed the culvert before the tobacco field and found Rex standing at 15 with tremendous style in the cover up to the right of the fork. Cruise was up ahead handling the course well and ducked in to the hedgerow along the left edge of the field. Coming from behind, Rex caught the front and both dogs continued along the left edge of the tobacco field. At 30, we reached the minefield before the clubhouse and found both dogs stopped. Cruise appeared to be backing Rex. Unable to produce a bird, Ben indicated that he would relocate and Cruise was brought ahead to continue on. This ended up as a non-productive and both dogs were sent on across to the field in front of the clubhouse. Rex stretched his legs along the right hand side of Dearborn, crossing over near the end to establish point at 45 at the end of the hedgerow, once again with tremendous style on point. This would prove to be Cruise's undoing as he failed to back Rex and was ordered up. This find would require a relocation and a bird was produced. As we returned from Dearborn, Ben sent Rex off to our right and we crossed the road ahead of us with no dog in sight. With 7 minutes to go and Scout off looking, we finally heard point called in the distance. Rex was found behind the water hole, standing yet again with tremendous style and well off a large covey of birds at the end of his hour.

Brace 5: Benson (Ben Lorenson) and Haley (John Perry) This brace started off well with Benson hitting birds first at 15 in the cover to the right off the water hole. At that time Haley was out of pocket and handler and scout were working to get her back in hand. As Judge Richardson and Benson caught up to the front, Haley appeared on our left coming off Fox Hill. Both dogs worked forward and just after the fork to the tobacco field, with Haley pointing at 21, Benson failed to back acceptably and was leashed. Haley, having stood her ground throughout the entire situation was released to the front. Moving down and away from the tobacco field, Haley handled well to the right, down through the end and across the brook. At 33, Haley was found on point in the minefield before the clubhouse. This time a cooperative quail flushed right away with everything order. Off to the front once again, Haley scooted along the left hand edge of the field in front of the clubhouse, still looking great on the ground, but at the end of that field, a covey of birds ended her hour prematurely as she ran over it and went with it.

Brace 6: Mac (Ben Lorenson) and Hooch (Joe Sikorski) Both dogs broke away well and boogied to the front. By the time we got through the pines, over the culvert and past the watering hole, despite his best efforts, Joe had lost contact with Hooch. He would eventually elect to find him with the aid of a tracker. Mac had 1 find covered by Judge Richardson and was doing a nice job on the ground for Ben. He got as far as the minefield before the clubhouse before committing an indiscretion and being ordered up.

Brace 7: Streek (Ben Lorenson) and Petey (Judy Kiracofe) Right off the breakaway Streek went on point and Petey managed a clean escape. Judge Carney continued on with Petey as Ben dismounted to flush. As the gallery exited the pines, at 5, Streek executed a perfect stop to flush at the top of the hill before the water hole with Petey off to the left behind the water hole. At 18 after the water hole in the cover off to the right, Petey established point, and Streek moved right in to join in the festivities. Streek was ordered up and Judy flushed with all in order. Petey's next find at 23 was as usual across the culvert and to the right of the fork. Petey stood his ground as Judy flushed. Headed down off tobacco field, Petey made a nice move on the right and carried it to the bottom. At 28 in the minefield, Petey looked nice on a single that flushed easily for Judy, and followed this up with a nice cast down the left hand side of the clubhouse field with an intense find at 33 at the end. Off to Dearborn and find number 5 at the far turn. Petey obviously had birds on his mind today. With 16 minutes to go we headed back down Dearborn for the main course with Petey working cover on our left. With 5 minutes left on the clock, the gallery waited with scout and handler desperately trying to locate Petey as time ran out.

Brace 8: Autie (Ben Lorenson) and Brandy (John Perry) Brandy and Autie were handling the course well with Brandy scoring a find at 16 in the cover on the right after the water hole. Autie unfortunately failed to back and was ordered up. Brandy's next find at 23 was off to the right of the culvert at the fork to the tobacco field. After Brandy's third find in the minefield before the clubhouse, judges elected to end Brandy's hour prematurely.

Breed Standard for the Brittany

General Appearance

A compact, closely knit dog of medium size, a leggy dog having the appearance, as well as the agility, of a great ground coverer. Strong, vigorous, energetic and quick of movement. Ruggedness, without clumsiness, is a characteristic of the breed. He can be tailless or has a tail docked to approximately four inches.

Size, Proportion, Substance

Height: 17 1/2 to 20 1/2 inches, measured from the ground to the highest point of the shoulders. Any Brittany measuring under 17 1/2 inches or over 20 1/2 inches shall be disqualified from dog show competition.

Weight: Should weigh between 30 and 40 pounds.

Proportion: So leggy is he that his height at the shoulders is the same as the length of his body.

Body Length: Approximately the same as the height when measured at the shoulders. Body length is measured from the point of the forechest to the rear of the rump. A long body should be heavily penalized.

Substance: Not too light in bone, yet never heavy-boned and cumbersome.

Head

Expression: Alert and eager, but with the soft expression of a bird dog.

Eyes: Well set in head. Well protected from briars by a heavy, expressive eyebrow. A prominent, full or pop eye should be heavily penalized. It is a serious fault in a dog that must face briars. Skull well chiseled under the eyes, so that the lower lid is not pulled back to form a pocket or haw that would catch seeds, dirt and weed dust. Preference should be for the darker colored eyes, though lighter shades of amber should not be penalized. Light and mean-looking eyes should be heavily penalized.

Ears: Set high, above the level of the eyes. Short and triangular, rather than pendulous, reaching about half the length of the muzzle. Should lie flat and close to the head, with the tip rounded very slightly. Ears well covered with dense, but relatively short hair, and with little fringe.

Skull: Medium length, rounded, very slightly wedge-shaped, but evenly made. Width, not quite as wide as the length and never so broad as to appear coarse, or so narrow as to appear racy. Well defined but gently sloping stop. Median line rather indistinct. The occiput only apparent to the touch. Lateral walls well rounded. The Brittany should never be "apple-headed" and he should never have an indented stop.

Muzzle: Medium length, about two-thirds the length of the skull, measuring the muzzle from the tip to the stop, and the skull from the occiput to the stop. Muzzle should taper gradually in both horizontal and vertical dimensions as it approaches the nostrils. Neither a Roman nose nor a dish-face is desirable. Never broad, heavy or snipy.

Nose: Nostrils well open to permit deep breathing of air and adequate scenting. Tight nostrils should be penalized. Never shiny. Color: fawn, tan, shades of brown or deep pink. A black nose is a disqualification. A two-tone or butterfly nose should be penalized.

Lips: Tight, the upper lip overlapping the lower jaw just to cover the lower lip. Lips dry, so that feathers will not stick. Drooling to be heavily penalized. Flews to be penalized.

Bite: A true scissors bite. Overshot or undershot jaw to be heavily penalized.

Neck, Topline, Body

Neck: Medium length. Free from throatiness, though not a serious fault unless accompanied by dewlaps, strong without giving the impression of being over-muscled. Well set into sloping shoulders. Never concave or ewe-necked.

Topline: Slight slope from the highest point of the shoulders to the root of the tail.

Chest: Deep, reaching the level of the elbow. Neither so wide nor so rounded as to disturb the placement of the shoulders and elbows. Ribs well sprung. Adequate heart room provided by depth as well as width. Narrow or slab-sided chests area fault.

Back: Short and straight. Never hollow, saddle, sway or roach backed. Slight drop from the hips to the root of the tail.

Flanks: Rounded. Fairly full. Not extremely tucked up, or flabby and falling. Loins short and strong. Distance from last rib to upper thigh short, about three to four fingers widths. Narrow and weak loins are a fault. In motion, the loin should not sway sideways, giving a zig-zag motion to the back, wasting energy.

Tail: Tailless to approximately four inches, natural or docked. The tail not to be so long as to affect the over-all balance of the dog. Set on high, actually an extension of the spine at about the same level. Any tail substantially more than four inches shall be severely penalized.

Forequarters

Shoulders: Shoulder blades should not protrude too much, not too wide apart, with perhaps two thumbs' width between. Sloping and muscular. Blade and upper arm should form nearly a ninety degree angle. Straight shoulders are a fault. At the shoulders the Brittany is slightly higher than at the rump.

Front Legs: Viewed from the front, perpendicular, but not set too wide. Elbows and feet turning neither in nor out. Pasterns slightly sloped. Down in pasterns is a serious fault. Leg bones clean, graceful, but not too fine. Extremely heavy bone is as much a fault as spindly legs. One must look for substance and suppleness. Height at elbows should approximately equal distance from elbow to withers.

Feet: Should be strong, proportionately smaller than the spaniels', with close fitting, well arched toes and thick pads. The Brittany is "not up on his toes." Toes not heavily feathered. Flat feet, splayed feet, paper feet, etc., are to be heavily penalized. An ideal foot is halfway between the hare and the cat foot. Dewclaws may be removed.

Hindquarters: Broad strong and muscular, with powerful thighs and well bent stifles, giving the angulation necessary for powerful drive.

Hind Legs: Stifles well bent. The stifle should not be so angulated as to place the hock joint far out

Feet: Same as front feet.

Coat: Dense, flat or wavy, never curly. Texture neither wiry nor silky. Ears should carry little fringe. The front and hind legs should have some feathering, but too little is definitely preferable to too much. Dogs with long or profuse feathering or furnishings shall be so severely penalized as to effectively eliminate them from competition.

Skin: Fine and fairly loose. A loose skin rolls with briars and sticks, thus diminishing punctures or tearing. A skin so loose as to form pouches is undesirable.

Color: Orange and white or liver and white in either clear or roan patterns. Some ticking is desirable. The orange or liver is found in the standard parti-color or piebald patterns. Washed out colors are not desirable. Tri-colors are allowed but not preferred. A tri-color is a liver and white dog with classic orange markings on eyebrows, muzzle and cheeks, inside the ears and under the tail, freckles on the lower legs are orange. Anything exceeding the limits of these marking shall be severely penalized. Black is a disqualification.

Gait: When at a trot the Brittany's hind foot should step into or beyond the print left by the front foot. Clean movement, coming and going, is very important, but most important is side gait, which is smooth, efficient and ground covering.

Temperament: A happy, alert dog, neither mean nor shy.

Disqualifications

Any Brittany measuring under 17 1/2 inches or over 20 1/2 inches. Black in the coat. A black nose.

The above Standard was approved by the AKC on April 9, 1990 and went into effect May 29, 1990.

The Difference Between Field Trials and Hunt Tests

By: Nancy Anisfield

Nancy Anisfield, an outdoor photographer/writer, sporting dog enthusiast and bird hunter, serves on Pheasants Forever and Quail Forever's National Board of Directors. She resides in Hinesburg, Vermont.

Lots of hunting dog owners, especially newbies, aren't sure what the difference is between a field trial and a hunt test. While both are great things to do in the offseason to keep us and our dogs in shape, training, and having fun, it can be confusing to figure out what's right for you and your dog.

Basically, field trials are competitions and hunt tests are not competitive. In a field trial, one dog wins, or depending on the structure of the trial, one dog in each division wins. In a hunt test, each dog is judged individually, not in comparison to other dogs, and is awarded a score based on its performance. At the end of a hunt test, there may be several dogs with perfect scores, several not passing, and all possible combinations in between.

The objective of a field trial is to pick a winner; the objective of a hunt test is to assess each dog independently.

Both field trials and hunt tests help breeders evaluate their lines. Both are fundamentally geared towards producing a better hunting dog by way of developing the dogs' inherent abilities and fine-tuning their training. Both have events running on local, state and national levels, from puppy age to adult dogs.

Whatever level you're at with your dog, there's a program you can participate in. And hooking up with a group of bird dog owners training for trials or tests can be one of the best ways to enhance your dog's training program and connect with people who share the passion.

There are many different organizations running field trials, and the format and style vary. One major difference is that some are walking trials and others are done with handlers, judges and galleries on horseback. Criteria for judging differ depending on whether it's a pointing dog trial, retriever or spaniel trial. Some field trials use pen-raised birds; others conduct the search on wild birds. There are non-shooting stakes and shoot-to-retrieve stakes.

The American Kennel Club, American Field Sporting Dog Association, and National Retriever Club sponsor most of the national field trials, but other groups – such as the National Shoot to Retrieve Association and National Bird Hunters Association along with a variety of amateur field trial groups and breed clubs – also host trials.

As far as hunt tests go, the North American Versatile Hunting Dog Association (for pointing dogs), AKC, and United Kennel Club (for both pointers and retrievers), and North American Hunting Retriever Association (retrievers) developed hunt test programs with the initial goal of providing a non-competitive yet standardized method of evaluating breeding. Parent breed clubs and multiple breeds clubs like the German Jagdgebrauchshundverband (JGHV) also have developed their own testing systems. The wonderful byproducts of these programs is the training that's offered for the tests provides handlers and their dog's outstanding preparation for hunting in general whether or not participants ever end up taking the tests.

Depending on the trial or tests, pointing dogs usually must demonstrate their ability to search for game; hold point; remain steady to wing, shot and drop; and retrieve down game to hand. Versatile pointing dogs will also be expected to search in the water for game; mark and retrieve downed waterfowl; and track game on land. Retriever and spaniel events judge the dogs' ability to hunt, ability to remain steady, mark downed birds or waterfowl; make blind retrieves; and deliver birds or duck to hand.

Whereas in a field trial the dog usually just has one run in a day, in most hunt tests, the dog performs several times. For example, in a NAVHDA Utility Test, each dog does a 30-minute field hunt, a minimum 10-minute duck search in a large body of water, a heeling course, a long tracked field retrieve, and a combination of steadiness and retrieving tasks from a water's edge blind. Both field trials and hunt tests have complex scoring criteria designed to make the judges' evaluations as objective as possible.

One of the liveliest – okay, let's be honest and say super-heated – discussions you can find in the gun dog world is whether field trials or hunt tests produce the better hunting dogs. Speed, style, practicality, hunting instinct, finish work and a bird bag full of other elements fuel the debates. What's important to most of us, however, is what program appeals to us and what we want out of our dogs. The best advice is to attend a couple of field trials or hunt tests, ask your dog's breeder for recommendations, and do a little local research to find out what's available. Then grab your dog and have some fun.

Research Looks at Tick Diseases as Cause of Immune-Mediated Disorders

Tick populations are at an all-time high this year, experts say. Dogs are particularly susceptible to ticks – and thus tick-borne diseases – because they spend a lot of time outdoors and are low to the ground where ticks live. Since ticks do not usually transmit disease until 24 to 48 hours after attachment, owners can help prevent illness by promptly removing ticks.

A one-year study, funded by the AKC Canine Health Foundation, is investigating how undetected infections that are transmitted by tick and flea vectors may contribute to immune-mediated conditions, such as hemolytic anemia, thrombocytopenia (low blood Platelets) and/or joint pain.

Lead investigator Linda Kidd, D.V.M., Ph.D., DACVIM, associate professor of small-animal internal medicine at Western University of Health Sciences College of Veterinary Medicine in Pomona, Calif., says, “I believe this study will contribute to other studies that help define the prevalence of tick-borne disease and help clinicians determine the best ways to test for underlying infections in dogs with signs that are similar to those signaling immune-mediated disease.”

Undiagnosed tick-borne infections in dogs with suspected immune-mediated disease may lead to treatment failure and the exacerbation of disease. In immune-mediated diseases, the immune system attacks the body inappropriately.

“It is thought that a trigger, such as an infection, drugs or cancer, may turn on immune responses that can be directed against self,” Kidd explains. “Genetic predispositions to immune-mediated disease also may contribute to disease development. Although a precipitating factor often is not found, these diseases can be managed better if you can find and treat the underlying causes. With tick-borne diseases that isn’t always easy.”

Kidd’s study will determine if comprehensive testing for tick-borne diseases using serology and polymerase chain reaction (PCR) screening, and testing more than one sample, makes it possible to detect infection in dogs that otherwise would be overlooked. Veterinary clinicians usually test one sample from a dog using serology or PCR, but not both tests. Serology detects the presence of antibody, which is one product of the body’s immune response against a pathogen, and PCR detects the nucleic acid, the DNA, of the organism itself.

“Although these tests are excellent, they can’t determine if infection is present or responsible for the clinical signs 100 percent of the time,” says Kidd. “For some diseases, the presence of antibody may mean the dog was exposed to an infectious agent but is not actively infected or the organism isn’t causing illness.”

For example, 50 percent or more of dogs living in Lyme disease endemic regions have positive titers when tested. Because exposure is common in healthy dogs, the test often is positive in these regions. Thus, it can be difficult to determine if clinical signs are due to Lyme or another disease.

Common Tick-Borne Diseases in Dogs
Disease	Tick Carrier	Pathogen	Signs*
Lyme Disease	Black-legged tick (deer tick)	Borrelia burgdorferi	Lameness, hot or swollen joints, fever, fatigue, and lack of appetite. Heart, neurological or kidney damage may occur.
Anaplasmosis	Black-legged tick ( A. phagocytophilum ). The vector for A. platys is not known but is thought to be tick transmitted.	Anaplasma phagocytophilum and Anaplasma platys	Low blood platelets and fever ( A. platys and A. phagocytophilum ). Anemia, lethargy, lack of appetite, enlarged lymph nodes, and stiff joints ( A. phagocytophilum ).
Ehrlichiosis	Brown Dog Tick	Ehrlichia canis	Anemia, low blood platelets, ocular and neurological signs, fever, swollen lymph nodes, runny eyes and nose, nosebleeds, lethargy, lack of appetite, and exercise intolerance.
Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever	American dog, lone star and wood ticks, and in some areas the brown dog tick	Rickettsia rickettsia	Fever, swollen lymph nodes and joints, vomiting, stiffness, skin lesions, vision problems, nosebleeds, anemia, and neurological signs (behavioral changes, head tremors, difficulty standing or walking).
Babesiosis	Brown dog tick ( B. canis ). B. gibsoni is thought to be transmitted when an infected dog bites an uninfected one.	Babesia canis and Babesia gibsoni	Anemia, pale gums, weakness, anorexia, vomiting, and low blood platelets.
Bartonellosis	Ticks and fleas may be vectors in dogs	Bartonella vinsonii , Bartonella henselae and other species	Intermittent fever and lameness. May cause anemia, heart or liver disease among other signs.
Hepatozoonosis	Brown dog and Gulf Coast ticks (transmitted when dogs eat infected tick or animals)	Hepatozoon canis and Hepatozoon americanum	Back pain, fever, runny eyes and nose, bloody diarrhea, muscle pain, muscle wasting, and other signs may occur due to infection of spleen, bone marrow and muscles. Signs vary with species.

* Note that the listing of signs is not comprehensive. Additional signs may occur with each disease

A recently completed study at North Carolina State University College of Veterinary Medicine showed that using both serology and PCR together can help determine whether infection is present. Adam Birkenheuer, D.V.M., Ph.D., DACVIM, associate professor of internal medicine and director of the Vector Borne Disease Diagnostic Laboratory, says, “There is no perfect test for tick-borne diseases. A veterinarian should use a combination of historical information, physical examination findings, laboratory tests, and how well a dog responds to treatment to support or refute tick-borne infections.”

Diagnosis also can be tricky because the most common indicators of vector-borne disease in dogs are nonspecific, such as lethargy, decreased appetite and gastrointestinal signs. To further complicate matters, ticks often transmit multiple diseases simultaneously. Many infections are treatable but not with the same drugs. Dogs that are co-infected can become sicker longer, have more severe clinical signs and require a longer treatment regimen.

The bottom line is that diagnosing tick-borne disease is complicated. Dog owners should work closely with their veterinarians to determine which infections are most likely and which testing should be performed.

Owners also should be aware that dogs are sentinels for some vector-borne diseases in people, becoming sick before their human companions. People who feel ill should contact their doctor immediately. Preventing tick and flea infestations is extremely important for your health and that of your dogs.

2014 ABC Prairie Chicken Classic/Championship

Bassett, Nebraska September 15, 2014

By Mary Karbiner

The 2015 running of the American Brittany Club Prairie Chicken Classic/Championship commenced September 15, 2014. The venue since 2005 has been the Ted Morton ranch southeast of Bassett, Nebraska. We were also privileged to be able to run on adjoining landowners; Butch Fisher, Curtis Luther and bordering Wade Dearth.

There were forty eight dogs drawn with forty seven going to the line. The winner was TLM Frequent Flyer owned by Harlan Gerardy, Tom & Linda Milam with Tom handling. Jack is a white and orange 07 model out of Hillside Sweet Ol' Bob X TLM Hardhearted Hannah. His wide race and limb find had the judges in agreement.

Runner-up was braceant Blueridge Hunter Gonna Fly owned by Sandra and Don Frost of Texas and handled by Scott Johnson of Kansas. He is sired by TC's Match Boks Racer X T'Kalis Feel The Wind. He is a six-year-old male that is white and orange colored. Hunter ran a wide race with multiple bird contacts.

Third place was awarded to McChesney's I Got My Mojo Working.

He is owned by John Chejne and Connie McCaffrey of Minnesota and handled by Jim John of Kansas. Mojo had a stop to flush and a covey find during his hour. He is out of Ru-Jem's A Touch of Bourbon X Lost Creek Kate. Mojo is a five-year-old orange and white male.

Joker's Jackpot was awarded fourth place for owner Steve Ralph of Minnesota. Jack was handled also by Jim John of Kansas. Jack had one of "the finds" of the stake, recounted in the running. He is out of Smarteye's Joker X S'no Fun Sea Hawk. Jack is a well-built male, another 07 model, white and orange colored male.

We would like to thank our sponsors: Nestle-Purina for their continued support of performance events. They are one of the world's largest pet food manufacturers. Their research and development helps our canine athletes perform at top levels. Mr. Roy Pelton was on hand to enjoy a visit and to answer questions about the products.

Garmin/Tri-Tronics manufactures training and recovery devices for animals. We are grateful for their continued donations to the sport. Their technology which enables trainers to correct and recover absent dogs has been invaluable.

Our judges for the event were Cindy Findley and Ken Seivert who are both from Iowa. Ken and Lester were a force to be reckoned with on any grounds especially the wide open prairies. Ken retired Lester last year but still is a competitor and event organizer for the Brittanys. Cindy has judged most all of the pointing breeds across the country. Her passion for prairie grass restoration was an enjoyable experience from which some of us learned a great deal. Both judges had keen eyes for the far flung prairie races.

Jeana Harmon of the Coral Bar in Bassett again accommodated us for the participant's dinner on Tuesday evening. She also supplied coffee and rolls for the morning break. Ray Trimble was on site to again be the delivery man. He is one of the long time attendees of this event.

The Prairie Chicken Classic/Championship is the only all age stake run on native game birds. The prairie chicken cannot be easily propagated. They require vast acres of grasslands, solitude and lack of human interference. They are not a woodlands dweller but prefer open meadows.

This year a new trophy was unveiled.

The first fifty years of winners is retired to the Brittany Wing in the Bird Dog Foundation at Grand Junction, Tennessee. This trophy will carry the next fifty years of winners. It was donated by the winner of the 1983 event. The cup was part of the keepers trophy that was given to the owner and now incorporated into the new traveling trophy.

The dedication and cooperation of the workers is what keeps this event one of the premier competitions within the American Brittany Club. Stan and Claudia Truksa of the Nebraska Brittany Club are the backbone of the organization. Unfortunately, Claudia could not stay the whole week. Someone was heard muttering about doing "women's work" a lot. With gates to open and close while crossing vast acres of land... we thank all of those that stepped to the task. Thank you to all who helped with the everyday tasks that it takes to put on an event. Come join us next year and experience some of the uniqueness of the sand hills of Nebraska.

THE RUNNING:

Cedar Valley Bandit, Tracy and Whizki's Sting, Holman. We left under sunny skies, a light breeze and cool temperatures. Bandit started slow and Holly went to work. At 23', Holly had an unproductive in the far east meadow with a long relocation. At 43', a single flushed in front of Bandit and he didn't get stopped soon enough. Holly finished the hour, which included some wide casts in her search for game.

The Ace of Spade, Capstick and Kinwashkly Fat Bastard, Tracy. Ace had a stop to flush at 5'. He moved nicely across the country. Fatz had bird contact at 10'. He continued to point at 17', 23, and 34' with relocations and was ordered up by the judge. Ace was working game at a fence line. He couldn't establish point before the bird lifted to end the brace.

Tequila Scorcher, Tillson and Glade Run Irish, Tracy. Lincoln got wider as the hour progressed. Irish was erratic in application. There was not any bird work for either dog in the hour.

Shady Way Red Tail Hawk, John and Kinwashkly Dirty Ned Pepper, Johnson. At 5', a single flushed in front of Beau and he didn't get stopped in time. Ned ran a prairie race but had no bird contact in the hour.

Black Creek Blaze, Holman and War Bonnet's Orion In The Big Sky, Tillson. Blaze had his track shoes on- running wide all over the country. Sky started wide and fast but the burrs got the best of him and he was up at 40'. Blaze had been gathered and leashed to end the brace.

Joker's Jackpot, John and Waysides Blueridge Runner, Johnson. Jack started forward and fast from the breakaway, across the hills to the southwest. Blue made some good moves in the hour with unproductive at 39' and 50'. Through the double gate, Jack crossed the meadow far to the front. He was sighted standing high and tight. Point was called by the gallery. The handler was at the far left side of the meadow. A large covey lifted in front of Jack long before the handler arrived at a gallop. he dog stood staunchly through all till the shot. He finished the hour forward along a tree lined ditch far to the front.

Shadow's Tequila Tryst, Tillson and Georgia's Texas Two Step, Tracy. Day two began with temps in the mid-40s, a light wind and a few clouds in the sky. Trystin pointed at 26' in tall prairie grass with Gigi backing nicely. She was relocated and Gigi taken on. No birds were produced. Trystin made a strong move down a long fence line to the east toward the next neighbor's, not having access for a scout. We waited for her return. Gigi made some moves in her hour. At 55', she had an unproductive. Trystin made wider moves into the hour. At 49', she was credited with a stop to flush on a single.

Maxwell's Outer Limits, Tracy and Sparky's Prairie Wind Gypsy, John. At 12', point was called for Max, he moved up a few steps as handler approached. Birds lifted and more birds lifted as he stood through the shot. Gypsy had unproductive at 16', 21' and 35' and was leashed. Max continued a moderate searching race through the hour.

Cedar Valley Fly By, Tracy and GR's Bookin & Cookin, Trimble. Fly was wide from the start and went crosswind to parts unknown. The locator was called for. Booker moved briskly away at the start. At 20', a single lifted in the adjacent pasture and he went with it causing the rest of a large covey to flush.

Ru-Jem's "Last" Penny, McGee and Jo-Lockapex Dark Roux Gumbo, Lincoln. Across the pasture at 6', point was called for Penny. A bird flushed, she waited then released herself while the handler rode to her. Point was called at 11' for Roux. He was on the other side of a knob when the handler called point. We saw the bird and then Roux appeared to end this brace.

Roustabout's White Knight, Tracy and Hal-J's Smarteyes Joker's EZ Ace, John. Knight started at moderate range. Ace jumped in with wide swings across the country. Knight made some good casts but ran at a moderate range overall without any bird contact. Ace was headed into the wind, stopped and pointed at the edge of a swale. Nothing was produced and the hour ended.

Shadow Attack, Tillson and Cedar Valley Spider, Tracy. From the gate at the lake, we headed southwest then south at the T in the road. Into the Thompson pasture, both dogs encountered a lot of cactus and shut down to end this brace.

Cedar Valley Uncle Kracker, Tracy and Shady's Desert Knight, Johnson, S. Kracker started wide. At 9', point was called by handler for Knight. He stood behind a knoll as we rode toward him. We sighted a single in the air then the dog behind it. Kracker went south and west from Ted's house and was returned on the rope.

McChesney's I got My Mojo Working, John and August Rush, Tracy. We went to the double gates at the east meadow to breakaway. Mojo had an unproductive at 11'. He was credited with a nicely handled stop to flush at 16'. Augie was wide from the start. He went south in the far east hay meadow and was not returned to judgment. At 32' Mojo had a covey find handled with good manners. An unproductive at 41' shortened his range briefly. He made a wide cast across the meadow and hung out there until time was called.

Chancey's Frozen Asset, Tracy and Odyssey's Ace of Hearts, Holman. The temperature is creeping up under sunny skies today. Chancey went to the south in the "big bale" meadow (rancher said that there were 985 bales there this year) He was absent for a time returning to the front. He had an unproductive at 55'. Ace continued to hunt the terrain as temperatures climbed. He ran at moderate range still working for game.

TLM Tall Tale, Tracy and Roux-Bee, Tillson. At 6', Tall Tale was ground scenting and knocked a chicken. At 11', Ruby had unmannerly bird contact to end this brace.

Powder River's Tri UR Luck, John and Jagoub's Buzzin' Bayou, Tracy. At 6 seconds Lotto had a mannerly stop to flush and again at 2' he was credited with another nice stop to flush as a large covey continued to lift. At 1', Buzz had a chicken flush and he wanted a better look at it. Lotto had unproductives at 4', 25' and 31' he was leashed.

TLM Pete Nocona, Milam and Black Creek Deacon, Holman. Handlers chose not to put the dogs on the wagon and they had to be sent for. The brace began in the far northeast pasture from the snagged pine tree. Pete made an opening cast then settled in at moderate range and was up at 25'. Dee ran all over the country but not wanting to stay forward readily. He was leashed at 45' to end this brace.

Day Four: The weather was overcast and temperatures in upper 50's with a haze in the distance.

TLM Frequent Flyer, Milam and Blueridge Hunter Gonna Fly, Johnson. First brace this morning was wide and fast off the breakaway. Jack and Hunter went south and we went east. Hunter came forward while Jack still went south. At 14' point was called by scout for Jack. Judges were two fences, one pasture and one hay meadow away. At the closest point, handler and judge set out afoot to the find. Dog stood through the arrival, flush and shot. Then we had to catch the front. Hunter had a nice stop to flush at 20'. After the release, he scored a find with nice style on a single. At 35', Jack had an unproductive with a lengthy relocation. He continued to be wide and forward. Watered at 56' at the gate, he went to the front and around the windmill as time was called. Hunter finished forward in the next pasture.

BBD's Ca-Ching, Myers and Sandy Pines Chase The Wind, Holman. Ching ran at moderate range. Chavey made some good moves during the hour. At 39', Chavey had a point with several long relocations not producing any game. Ching pointed at 40' but nothing was produced and he was up at 50'. Chavey had no bird contact during the hour.

Wimberley Rowdy Bo-Dandy, Johnson and Rusty's Royal Run, John. Both dogs started fast on the ground with wide moves. Rusty had unproductive at 16', 29' and 54' with long relocations to end his hour. Rowdy ran a good prairie race. At 44' point was called by handler. As birds lifted, there was one that came from behind the dog and he wanted a better look.

The Crash Scene, Tracy and Redrock's Siesmic Sniksoh, Lincoln. Crash had bird contact at 20'. His application was consistently at moderate range with a few nice casts during the hour. Mickey started strong. She had an unproductive at 26' standing on a ridge. She ran into cactus, which ended her time on the ground.

Top dog Boney Bud was scratched. Jac's Over Aces, Holman ran as a bye. At 6', a bird lifted and the dog went with it.

Brendi Brooks Cowboy Up, Tracy and Ocaje, Gowin. At 6', Cowboy failed to back as the brace mate pointed at the edge of a swale. Grace then left the area. Cowboy was leashed. At 12', a bird lifted and Grace went with it to end their time on the ground.

Ribbons by Dave Webb

More years ago than I like to think about, the breeder from whom our Brittany pup, Coco had been purchased persuaded me that the pup showed promise to compete in field trial events. She was a few months shy of being one year old. She would be running in an Open Puppy Stake. To compound the situation, I had never competed in an AKC field trial. The pup and I had trained on a set of local grounds and she knew what quail and their scent were all about. She was “very intense on the birds” – pointing and then chasing.

There were nine other Brittany pups competing and it was not an easy task for me to keep-up with Coco in the foot handled stake. She had a “big” run as I was told by one of the gallery members after the puppy stake was over. She placed first. That was the first ribbon of a few more to come from our other Brittanyns in both show and field trial events.

Several years after the field trial event, I took another Brittany pup to a local dog show. It was the first such event for both the pup and me. We both had attended “puppy classes” to determine how the pup and I, as the handler, should conduct ourselves during the show event. Before the show, Dewey had been bathed, coat trimmed, and nails manicured to ready him for the event.

The pup was well behaved in the ring as we both moved thru the instructions given to us by the judge, who then awarded Dewey with a blue ribbon. Upon returning home later that afternoon, I proudly displayed that ribbon to my wife. With that my better-half responded and ask, “That’s great; how many other Brittanyns were there competing with Dewey.” I said, “Well there was just one other pup in that ‘bred-by-exhibitor class, but it’s a ribbon in the show!”

One could say that those two events – field trial and show – set the “hook” for my undeniable quest to field trial and show the Brittany. As a family with three boys, during the 1970’s the first 20 some years were spent with the Brittany as a hunting dog and best friends for our boys. It wasn’t until the boys were off to college and in pursuit of their own careers that my attention became more focused on field trial and show events.

So let me become somewhat philosophical at this point – what is the importance of those ribbons in both the field trial and show events? The ribbons are an indicator of excellence – as judged how the dog has performed to the AKC field trial and show standards, Ribbons are also great memories of the events with our Brittanyns and the people associated with the competition,

When a first place ribbon is not achieved, the ribbons for the other placements should teach us to appreciate the performance of others. Maybe even a little humility.

Those ribbons are important for what they mean to us. However, one must have an objective view when competing in field trial and show events. Brittany’s from our own breeding can lead to what is known as “kennel blindness” – always believing that the pups from our breeding are “a cut above” everyone else’s. One must remember it really is “all about the dogs” and not us. We should always be looking to improve the Brittany and this will occur by all those who love the breed in both field trial and show arena.

A SPORTSMAN'S RAMBLINGS

by Marty Garrell

September 2006 Outdoors by Marty Garell

One week ago the news media all over the country celebrated a milestone, the birth of America's 300 millionth citizen. The standard wisdom is that growth is somehow healthy, that we need a young population to pay for the social costs of retirees, that an aging population should be cause for concern, etc., etc. But those of us who cherish the outdoors have to wonder about this unalloyed enthusiasm for baby number 300 million!

The doubling time for a population that grows at one per cent per year (as the U.S. does) is 67 years; hence many "fogies" like me enjoyed a country of 150 million and its outdoors. In the 1940s Eastern Suffolk had even less than half of its current population, and so did Nassau. Both counties together had less than three million. Because there's so much mobility as urban New York moves east into Nassau and suburban Suffolk pushes east to the twin tips of Suffolk, the population numbers we use today are, if anything, low estimates.

To really see the effects of population growth, all you have to do is to search for open lands for recreation, try to find a mooring in the summer, or drive the LIE in either direction on any day of the week. Moreover, because population growth is exponential, the amount of land or resources that get used up each year increases alarmingly. One recent figure estimates the amount of open land developed since 1980 at 40% of what was then available.

Students enrolled in the environmental programs I teach at Adelphi are advised not to guffaw too loudly when their grandparents grumble that "things were better in the old days", simply because, from the standpoint of resources and recreation, things actually were better! Yes, Virginia, there really were quail coveys and wild pheasant in Syosset 40 years ago. Yes, there really were so many winter flounder that you could toss some mussels off a skiff in the Cutchogue creeks in the spring and catch your dinner in an hour or so. Yes, there were farms on both forks where you could gain access for small game hunting simply by knocking on a door and introducing yourself.

Despite the skeptical smirks of those who bash conservationists and environmental researchers as "eco-Nazis" or worse and then scoff at rising population size as cause for concern, there is no contradicting the relationship between impact and population size. It's linear, i.e., the greater the population, the greater the impact. Naturally, affluence plays a role, too. A less affluent population won't have as much impact as a more affluent one, so that spread of bungalows and summer cottages that used to line the beaches or marsh fringes didn't have the impact that our current East End developments, quarter-million dollar "affordables", and McMansions do. Ironically, many of these are built on the footprints of the very same cottages and bungalows that have been torn down.

Technology can help or hinder the carrying capacity of an area. Replace individual septic systems with public sewage treatment, and, if you can handle the treated effluent and pay for it, you can put more folks on the land. Manage resources better, and maybe everybody can share the fisheries, up to a point. But wealthy America doesn't always respond well to pleas for conservation or green solutions by accepting better energy-saving technology and paying pennies more to avoid real costs. We're still adamant on getting whatever petroleum supplies we need; we're still happy to "let the good times roll on" with bigger power boats and bigger SUVs.

It's fascinating why populations move around and what factors cause people to move. Even more than Long Island winters, the crowding of population on our East End has pushed friends down to Dixie, to the coastal Carolinas, or to the southern Appalachians. Ironically, even there, newcomers find that they can run, but they cannot hide. Populations grow in these places, too, and the same phenomena follow the pilgrims: more roads, higher taxes, and, again, compromised outdoor activities.

Sadly, it's time to stop celebrating population growth as a good thing and to realize that the very phrase, "sustainable growth", is an oxymoron, simply because the resources of the region and the planet are finite. Our region and our country have finite carrying capacities. Exponential population growth will eventually leave a land where outdoor opportunities are so compromised that only the very wealthy can afford the exclusive opportunities that remain. The rest of the poor slob had better be content to play games on their computers.

Forced to choose between a country of 400, even 500, million that might somehow automatically support us as seniors and a country half that size with proportionally greater outdoor opportunities, a majority of outdoors persons might have chosen the latter!

ANTHRACITE Centre Hall, PA July 18, 2014

We had beautiful weather for the show in Centre Hall, Pennsylvania. We had a small but quality entry for our Friday evening Specialty Show. A light meal was served, thanks to Terry Hilliard and Debra Rudert for all of their help. This was our last Specialty Show at Centre Hall as we are moving to a new venue next year.

EAST COAST

CENTRAL NEW ENGLAND Flaherty Field Trial Area East Windsor, CT September 20-21, 2014

We had a beautiful weekend in E. Windsor, CT for Central New England Brittany Club's annual fall field trial. The rain managed to hold off for most of the weekend. We had a wonderful entry of 127 starters which ran on two courses.

Thank you to all the club members, and non-members, who came out to give us a hand and pitched in wherever we needed help (be it filling bird bags, planting birds, etc.). Thank you to Dottie and Lou Boyatzi and Dennis Duguay who manned the kitchen both days keeping us all fed. Thanks our wonderful line marshals (Guy Pagella, Evelyn Pagella, Lisa Tailby and Kim Hatton) who kept things moving along so that we could get all the dogs run in the daylight. Thank you to our judges for coming out to judge for us from near and far. And most of all, thank you to all the people who came out to run their dogs and support our club. It is much appreciated! We could not do this without the support of each and every one of you. We hope to see you all in the Spring!

Congratulations to all the winners!

August 30-September 4, 2014

The Oregon Brittany Club held their annual Fall Field Trial at Boyce Corral on the Crooked River National Grasslands near Madras, OR over the Labor Day weekend. The weather was a mix of cool mornings and hot afternoons, unusual light rain one day and some clouds on another. Temperatures were generally in the 80s to low 90s. Scent conditions were tough and the Chukar were extremely uncooperative runners rather than flyers. We also carried over into the following week to hold the Western Open Shooting Dog Championship, won by FC K Nines On The Loose handled by California Pro Paul Doiron for owner Linda McDonald. Jim House handled his Brown's BBJ and super female Jalo's Spec Tacular to the second and third spots. Idaho Pro Jason Staley took fourth with his Cooper.

Other winners were in the Open All Age FC MVP Redline's High Octane "Tiger" handled by Paul Doiron. Wayne Hale handled his veteran FC/AFC Here We Go Again "JD" to the blue in the AGD and Oregon's own Jim House winning the OGD and Gene Pullen Memorial Trophy with BJ. Jim has more places on this trophy than anyone. Joe Gower won the AAA with Lucy who had a big weekend. The derby was won by Cortnee Staley's Young Charge Janee's Let Her Go handled by husband and pro Jason Staley. Puppy was won by our own Mark Shearman with his Dixie.

We welcomed visitors from the East, Paul and Lisa Pollock, who were here to visit our state and to watch their dogs run. Please come back anytime. Everyone pitched in to help bird planting, food preparation, judging and all the thankless tasks necessary to make our trial successful. Thank you to Pros and Amateurs from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California. A special thank you to all our judges; they were in the saddle for many, many hours. See you again next spring.

Rick Axtell
FT Secretary

Hunt Test

LA SALLE Des Plaines Conservation Area Joliet, IL September 6-7, 2014

The LaSalle Brittany Club held their fall Hunting Tests on Saturday, September 6 and Sunday, September 7, 2014 at Des Plaines Wildlife Conservation Area, Joliet, Illinois.

The ground cover at Des Plaines represented what a dog and hunter will encounter this upcoming fall hunting season. We had partly cloudy skies on Saturday with temps starting off in the 60s and warming up to the upper 70s in the afternoon. Sunday morning was in the 70s, mostly sunny, and temps rose to the 80s.

Part Four Good and Evil

Copper, Lawyer, Pointer, Cook Part Two

It was over as quickly as it had begun. The deposition had lasted just ten minutes.

He knew now why Herter had insisted on the deposition. It had nothing to do with the questions on the record. It had everything to do with the questions off the record.

Stuphin didn't own 143 Pine or 276 Oak. Never had owned them. Herter knew it, too. But those house numbers were transpositions of other house numbers on the same streets that Sutphin knew much about. Houses where things happened that Sutphin was paid to overlook.

Why had Herter done this? Was he hinting at blackmail?

"I would like to say to you, Officer Sutphin, that your wife wishes you the best. She hopes your relationship with the children can be positive. That will depend on you, Officer Sutphin." Herter's eyes bore into his again.

Herter had put him on notice. If he did anything spiteful, Herter would see he went to prison. It was a fine-line thing. Prison for him would mean welfare for Alma and the children. Herter didn't want that. Herter had fired a warning shot across his bow. He admired the lawyer's craftiness. He hated the black-eyed devil.

He said nothing, then rose to leave. Adams said to go ahead alone, he would stay a minute to discuss another case with Herter.

After Sutphin reached the street, Adams said, "He seems to be adjusting to the reality of the divorce."

"I'm not so sure," Herter said, worry in his voice.

"Me, either," the court reporter said. Like all of her calling, she made a hobby of sizing up witnesses. "That one scares me." She packed her machine into its case and left.

As Officer Sutphin walked from the conference room, he looked carefully at the reception room carpet. Near the door a spot of tar lay buried in the fibers. He smiled.

He drove from his deposition to police headquarters. The bank sign blinked 3:00... 103 degrees as he passed.

At headquarters he checked the log on the Department's one unmarked cruiser, found it available for his graveyard shift, and signed up for it. Then he telephoned the officer with the west-end beat and arranged to trade beats, promising in return to take the next overtime shift. The other officer smiled as he hung up. So Ole Willie has finally stopped mooning Alma and lined up a rendezvous—wonder who with?

When Officer Sutphin drove in for his shift, he did not park at headquarters. Instead he left his truck in an unlighted lot and walked the last two blocks. Despite the heat he wore his navy blue uniform, not the khaki summer one.

He drove the brown unmarked cruiser back to his pickup. Looking about carefully to be sure he was unobserved, he quickly lifted four concrete blocks, two lengths of rope, and a sheet of construction plastic from the truck bed into the cruiser's trunk. He unscrewed the light bulb inside the trunk lid. Then he drove to the west end of the city and began to cruise his beat.

At three o'clock in the morning, the cruiser rolled slowly past stately houses on three-acre lots. Azaleas, begonias and magnolias filled the lawns. Tall pines, limbed only in their crowns, towered above.

Sutphin drove by all the houses within three blocks of his target, checking for signs of activity. He saw none. He recalled his night patrol training at Paris Island, and his heart beat faster, but he felt only excitement, no fear; the adrenalin was doing its work.

He drove the last block slowly, headlights out. To avoid the intersection street lights, he stopped in mid-block, parking where hedge would obscure the cruiser.

Herter's kennel lay at the back of his lot. He adjusted the night vision goggles he had lifted from the SWAT team equipment locker and walked down the boundary hedge. Mosquitos attacked, but he was oblivious to their bites. Nearing the kennel, he heard a low growl. He called softly, "Molly," and the growling stopped. He checked the gate latch; there was no lock. Mother and pup stood silent inside the gate, their tails wagging. He opened the gate a few inches, and with his gloved left hand reached for Molly's collar. She accepted his grasp, knowing she would be led off, probably to a vehicle. The pup followed them back to the cruiser. Molly jumped in the trunk when he opened it; she had traveled that way before. The pup whined. He grasped the loose skin at the back of its neck and lifted it in with its mother. Then he eased the trunk closed. He placed magnetized Georgia license plates over the city ones.

The drive to Boykin would take thirty minutes. The risk was great, for at any moment he might get a radio call to some duty. But since he was working the better neighborhoods, he calculated the risk acceptable. He had spent the earlier hours of his beat thinking up excuses if he could not respond to a call.

The drive to Boykin, past farms and pine forest, was uneventful. He drove carefully at the speed limit. He imagined Herter's feelings when he discovered the dogs missing.

The cruiser's headlights struck the small green sign for Boykin. The village name appeared on both sides of the sign, a one-inch town. He reached for the night goggles as he braked the cruiser, punched off the headlights, and turned onto a farm road. A hundred yards beyond, he turned again onto a bulldozed firebreak in a stand of thick pines. He turned off the engine. With windows down, he listened carefully; only crickets and bull frogs.

When he opened the trunk, they were panting rapidly, tongues extended and dripping. His lack of foresight alarmed him—he should have tied the trunk down with a string and left an air space. A few more minutes and they would have been dead from the heat.

He placed the look in the clothesline rope around Molly's neck, removed her collar and stuffed it in his pocket. Grasping a concrete block in his left hand, he led her down the fire break. Mosquitos attacked, but again he was unaware of them.

At the mill pond edge he looped the free end of the rope through the hole in the block and walked back to the cruiser. The pup stood whining in the open truck. "You stay put," he said softly. He lifted out two more blocks and returned to Molly at the pond edge.

He ran the rope through the holes in the blocks and tied them securely together, then tied the end of the rope around Molly's waist. She stood calmly; after years of training she did not fear a rope.

Stuphin pulled the nightstick from the ring on his belt and struck her across the skull with all his strength. A sharp crack and a short yelp broke the silence. She lay limp at his feet, blood flowing from her ears.

He returned the nightstick to the belt ring. Then he heaved her body and the blocks into the pond. The loud splash alarmed him...but there was no house nearby, and the Mill Pond Restaurant, a hundred yards away, where the stylish people from Camden drove in their BMWs and Mercades and Land Rovers after their polo games to dine on gourmet food, was long since closed. Three blocks should keep her down long enough for the turtles to do their work....

He walked back to the cruiser for the pup and the fourth block. But he found the trunk empty. He called, then walked back to the pond, sure the pup would follow its mother's scent. But the pup did not appear, and his soft calling could not summons it.

He must get back to the cruiser. He was beyond range for his belt radio, and not answering a dispatcher's call could mean real trouble. After ten minutes of calling softly for the pup as he stood by the cruiser, he gave up and drove back to Sumter, first dumping the last block and the second rope into the pond.

His absence from his beat went undetected. He threw his bloody gloves and the plastic sheeting in a trash dumpster behind a convenience store, and sprayed the trunk with Lysol to cover the dog smells.

He finished his shift driving about the neighborhood, avoiding Herter's street, savoring his memories of the evening. The shift passed quickly.

As he turned the cruiser in at headquarters, he heard the dispatcher's broadcast of the missing dog report. He smiled in relief. He wondered how he might have handled things if Herter's call had come during his shift.

He slept soundly in the trailer until three in the afternoon. It was his night off, and he drove to a beer joint in Florence. For the first time since Alma left him, he enjoyed the evening. He stayed over at the apartment of a kindly waitress who wouldn't let him drive home at closing time. He woke at noon to a throbbing head and the itch of a hundred mosquito bites.

To be continued in next month's issue

MEMBERS OF THE AMERICAN BRITTANY CLUB

Give the gift of a new membership... to give the opportunity to someone to learn about and participate in the American Brittany Club.

This membership campaign is really quite simple, we are asking every member to donate/sponsor a membership in the American Brittany Club. This "gifted" membership might be to a puppy purchaser, or a friend/acquaintance who has a Brittany. All of us encounter people who may just need a little encouragement to become members.

This can work, but it is totally dependent upon your support. Please use the ABC application form in the back of the magazine to enroll a new member today. You may donate/sponsor multiple new memberships. The names of new members & ABC sponsors will be published in the magazine on a quarterly basis.

THIS IS OUR CHANCE TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE!
