The American Brittany

VOLUME LXVIII • NUMBER 11 • NOVEMBER 2016

Objective and Purpose:

To promote cooperation and friendship among the breeders and owners of Brittanys and to encourage higher standards in breeding, training and showing of Brittanys in the field and in the show ring; to discourage the breed from becoming split into groups of "field dogs" and "show dogs" and to strive to keep it forever a "dual dog".

2016 Summer Specialty Shows

June 11, 2016

The 2016 ABC Summer Specialty was held during the Woofstock Cluster of dog shows in Northern California. The theme for the shows is the 60s Hippie Days with dress up day on Saturday. Competition for best costumes for both dogs and people was hilarious – some very interesting costumes.

The Sweepstakes was judged by long time Brittany owner-breeder Ms. Cathy Dugan. Ms. Dugan is more famously known for her top winning “Aviator” Portuguese Water Dogs.

Regular classes were judged by another long time Brittany expert Ms. Deb Rudert. Ms. Rudert chose GCH Dream Hi's Don't Hate the Player Hate the Game (Ashton) for Best of Breed. Ashton went on to win a Sporting Group 4, as well as the specialties runoff (for a nice cash prize).

The American Brittany Club and the host club The California Brittany Club would like to thank the Nestle-Purina Company for the dog food and generous monetary support of this event. The success of many of our ABC events relies on Purina's generous support which is very much appreciated.

July 9, 2016

The Michigan Brittany Club Specialty was held on July 9 in conjunction with the Ann Arbor Kennel Club all breed show. Our show was dedicated in memory of Elisabeth Shopp. Beth was a long time and devoted Brittany owner and active member of our club. She is dearly missed.

The weather was beautiful and sunny and our judge Bonnie Threfall had a beautiful entry. Her Best of Breed was Hobey, GCHB Sovereign's Chasing Legends, owned by Dawn and Joe Droel and Jessica Carlson.

Our club appreciates the support and travel efforts made by our exhibitors to attend our show-thank you!

Brittany Field Trial Hall of Fame

You are invited to the Dedication of the Life-size Brittany Bronze

Saturday, February 11, 2017 at Noon on the grounds of the Bird Dog Museum and Field Trial Hall of Fame
Grand Junction, TN

The Brittany finally has a Life-size Bronze to represent the breed on the grounds at the Bird Dog Museum thanks to Ken Jacobson's longtime dream and untiring efforts. One of the world's greatest wildlife artists, Matthew Gray Palmer, sculpted The SAM Bronze.

Plan on attending this once in a lifetime ceremony to be followed by the induction of the newest members of the Brittany Field Trial Hall of Fame.

For details on this project including sale of the small SAM Bronzes to help fund the Life-size Brittany Bronze and the Brittany Endowment Fund, visit our website News page at www.brittanyfieldtrialhalloffame.com.

ST CROIX VALLEY

Sally Farms

Stillwater, MN

September 17-18, 2016

SCVBC Hunt Test was held at Kelly Farms near Stillwater, MN on September 17 & 18, 2016. Cool temperatures and ample moisture made scenting conditions near perfect for the dogs to demonstrate their talents. Handlers, judges, workers and spectators also enjoyed the early fall weather. With the cooperation of the German Shorthaired Pointer Club of MN, dogs were eligible to run in 4 events over the weekend. There was a total of 135 hunting performance tests given between both clubs.

Dogs and handlers came from the states of MN,

SD, ND, IA, WY, and WI. There were at least seven different breeds besides Brittanys.

A total of 6 Brittany's earned their Junior Hunter Title: RD's Upland Remy-D "Remy", owner Rob Dobey; Lucifer's Dark Prairie Storm "Lucy", owner George Bosma; Rebel Flame InDa Moonlight "Remnar", owner Cullen Hewitt; CH Jozan's Cosmic Dust "Val", owner Tom Frame; Farout Fields Forever Faith "Faith", owner Curt & Bonnie Brandon, and Bantam N JS French Lace N Coco Sher'ell "Sher'ell", owner Bob & Diane Pflipsen.

A hearty round of applause goes to all of the folks who helped make the production of "SCVBC Hunt Test 2016" a huge hit.

In Memory

William Cartmell
1930 - 2016

Born in Rahway, NJ, Bill was the son of a Presbyterian Minister. He grew up in Watkins Glen, NY, where his earliest lessons in bird hunting came with his father over the family Cocker Spaniels at an early age. This was in upstate New York and Grouse, Woodcock and Pheasants were the prime gamebirds of the area. After high school, Bill attended Park College in Kansas City, Missouri, where he received a degree in Chemistry and Science. He also received Masters degrees in Chemistry from the University of Mississippi and Mathematics from the University of Denver. While at "Ole Miss" in Oxford, MS, he met and courted Rheta Howell whom he married in 1954 and began a 36 year career with IBM in Endicott, New York.

Bill discovered in the early sixties an interesting article in the New York Times about a newly introduced dog from France called the Brittany Spaniel. He was familiar with Spaniels but knew nothing about the only Spaniel that pointed.....the Brittany. It is reported that Bill drove hundreds of miles to see the Brittany in action...overwhelmed by this great breed of dog. He acquired his first Brittany in 1962 and soon reached out into the competitive world of Brittany field trials. He was smitten by the sport and jumped in with both feet, joining the Upper New York Brittany Club and competing in Brittany trials over a wide section of the country.

Bill soon became somewhat dissatisfied with the one course, 30-minute, liberated bird stakes and became involved with promoting and establishing one-hour Brittany stakes. He teamed with Dr. Walker Heap and Bill McClure in promoting the International Brittany Championship, a one-hour titular stake at Walker Heap's S'No Fun preserve near Watertown, NY. He also became involved, along with Rheta, in the ABC National organization and the U.S. Open Brittany Championship, a premier one-hour Brittany Championship at Ardmore, OK. For many years thereafter, Bill pushed for endurance Brittany stakes, tracking pedigrees of dogs that won hour stakes. He compiled and studied those statistics, wrote articles and encouraged breeders to think about matings that would produce dogs that could compete in hour stakes. It took a number of years of dedication on Bill's part to promote hour stakes but as a testimonial to his success and the success of others of his kind, today there are over 40 of them in the world of Brittany field trials.

Along with his efforts in helping to establish one-hour stakes for the Brittany, Bill was even more dedicated to another of his goals.....the establishment of a Brittany Field Trial Hall of Fame. He pushed and promoted the Hall of Fame idea for Brittany field trial dogs for many years despite the fact that many people thought it was just a pipe dream. Bill became a driving force behind its establishment and without his efforts over a span of years there might well not be a Brittany Field Trial Hall of Fame today. He along with Rheta also managed this organization for many years, conducting the nomination process, balloting, election and acting as emcee during the induction ceremonies at the Bird Dog Museum in Grand Junction, TN.

Both Bill and Rheta are members of the Brittany Field Trial Hall of Fame.

The Brittany community will be forever indebted to Bill Cartmell for giving us a place to honor our "greats" and for Brittany history.

In lieu of flowers, the family would like donations made in Bill's memory to the "Brittany Field Trial Hall of Fame", P.O. Box 774, Grand Junction, TN 38039. (Indicate Bill Cartmell on your check)

Remembering Bill Cartmell

By David A. Fletcher

I was impressed with Bill Cartmell the first time I met him at the 1970 running of the International Brittany Championship at Dr. Walker Heap's Shooting Preserve near Watertown, N.Y. Bill was the stakes manager and I was the reporter and judge, paired with Jack Fitzpatrick.

One thing was obvious. Bill was focused on something, in fact very diligently focused, and I envisioned it had something to do with an overwhelming desire to build and promote one-hour horseback Open All-Age Brittany Championships. This was a bit of a departure in Brittany trials of the day, for they were commonly 30 minutes, one course with a bird field. An AKC Championship title for your dog could be had by accumulating a few points in a number of trials and when the points totaled the required number, you would have a Field Champion.

Bill's associates in this venture were Dr. Walker Heap, of Watertown, N.Y., Bill McClure from Ottawa, Ontario, Shooting Preserve manager Jim Cowick, Rheta Cartmell, Jim Malia, George Blakeman, Lloyd and Ella Conable, a bit later, and Frank Ash rounded out the team. Also participating with this group was Bill Norvell of Richardson, Texas whose Brandy's Bullet was competing at the time. Both Bills (Cartmell and Norvell) were highly educated in Mathematics and Science, Norvell employed by Texas Instruments and Cartmell with IBM.

Walker Heap had the Championship facility, ownership of several adjoining Dairy Farms, about 1000 plus acres..... no farming on the property, nothing but natural grass and weed growth which became superb Pheasant cover. His Pheasant rearing was tied to the shooting preserve activities, but daily the birds that could fly over the high perimeter fence re-stocked the site. It was a great venue for all-age horseback Brittany trials.

I was in tune with the pursuit of those ideals, joined the club and as the seasons went by became President and helped manage club affairs. It was a time of higher fuel prices and motel rooms and the handlers mainly came from Oklahoma and Illinois in the persons of Rick Smith, Jim Holman and Mark Appleton. In an effort to cut handler's expense on the road, the Championship was moved to Baldwinsville, N.Y. but only a few renewals were held there. The club was unable to keep going and disbanded. The Championship and the treasury were passed to other notable Brittany Clubs and the International Brittany Championship is still alive under the guidance of Lisa Pollock and her associates.

Another thing that impressed me about Bill was his work and supreme effort in establishing a Brittany Hall of Fame as part of the Bird Dog Foundation. He persevered until he got the job done. I was Vice President of the Bird Dog Foundation at the time of meetings with the Brittany Hall of Fame group. Bill and Rheta Cartmell, Jim and Janet Chase, Dr John Webb and Rick and Delmar Smith to name only a few, were successful in getting the Brittany Hall of Fame in motion. Bill was also prominent in supporting the U.S. Open Brittany Championship that I judged and reported on several occasions at the invitation of Delmar Smith. Bill Cartmell served that one-hour open all-age championship well. The U.S. Open Brittany Championship is perhaps the oldest one-hour Open All-Age championship in the Brittany world, established by early pioneers such as Delmar Smith, John Doak and others.

In addition to Bill's work with the International Brittany Championship, the Brittany Field Trial Hall of Fame and the U.S. Open Brittany Championship, Bill and Rheta supported the Brittany National Open All-Age Championship at Booneville, Arkansas. Bill's love for the Brittany Nationals prompted him to purchase property and build a home near the breakaway of that Championship. I visited with them during his early participation there before the house and property were acquired. I was on my way to Charlie Jackson's ranch at Graham, Texas where I was reporting the National Amateur Quail Shooting Dog Championship. Rheta and I had been working on the "Book of the Eighties", that I printed, and I had set all the type, completed the camera and film work on the book. My proofing pages needed to be read by author Rheta so I stopped at Booneville to get with Rheta and Bill and go over the book pages. It took us a couple of days to read every sentence in that book for typographical miscues, punctuation and spelling errors. Bill and Rheta had rented a cabin a few miles north of the Booneville grounds and I remember one cold night we pulled our cots close to the pot bellied wood stove to keep warm.

There are many "givers" in the Brittany fraternity, but few of them have given as much as Bill Cartmell over a long span of years, or accomplished the things he stood for, and worked so hard for. My hat is still off to my departed friend. Let his memory and his accomplishments live on.

LAS CIENEGAS ~ QUAIL COUNTRY

From Gil Hopper

If our first report on the "Las Cienegas Circuit" of field trials in Southern Arizona next January wasn't enough to entice you to join us, maybe this will do the job! We've got three field trials, three one-hour stakes, two of which are championships. Reports have it that Mearns are in abundance this year – in addition to Gambel's, Scalies, and Bob-whites. For your enjoyment, the clubs are planning delicious meals to satisfy your appetite...traditional Mexican, basic American, yummy Breakfast Burritos, and a Happy Hour or two! We've even got live entertainment, again provided by "The Musettes," Candi and Dani, well known Tucson accordionists.

Besides coveys of quail, you might encounter other varieties of wildlife – if you're lucky you might catch sight of a herd of Pronghorn which is enough to take your breath away! Take a little extra time and visit the world famous Kartchner Caverns and Tombstone, "the town too tough to die." Both are just a short drive away.

There's a little bit of everything for everyone. Where will you fit into the game plan?

A Youth Handler's Story

My name is Charles Dreyfus, I'm from New Jersey and 14 years old. On June 4, 2016 I was a first time handler at the Del Val NAVHDA Spring test running Natural Ability. My dog Otis (Marjo's Sam Son), at the time was 10 months with a birthday of July 13, 2015.

I woke up at 5:30 am the morning of the test and I wasn't really nervous. We drove to the testing site and met up with all our friends in the chapter. I read the running order and found out I was the 2nd dog out of 8, then my nerves started kicking in. When the judges came to greet us I was uncomfortable because I didn't know a single judge. As the first dog did its field work I was extremely nervous. Once it was my turn and I released Otis I got to know the judges a little better with small talk about turkeys and hunting.

Otis' first point came quickly, but he flushed the bird himself and then went out of sight. The judges directed me forward and to keep calling Otis back but he ran further and further out of the field. I was so mad at Otis and I thought to myself Otis failed, it's over and once we located him, the judges would kick me out of the test.

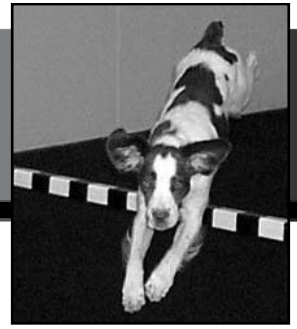

We started walking towards the wood line, and then in that moment we all turned around to the sight of the bird planter waving her arms and pointing in the taller grass. We took a closer look and it was Otis on point, the whole time in a section of tall grass. He is not very tall! He stayed through the entire flush and after that pointed 3 more birds that I flushed. We were working as a team now!

3 hours later we moved on to pheasant tracks, it was hot! The second after I released him to track I thought he failed and coming back I said to my crowd "He didn't track, it's over I failed." Until everyone said he did track and they liked what they saw. By lunch time I was very acquainted with all my judges and comfortable. We joked around a bit and I felt better. After lunch we moved on to water, I thought Otis would goof and he did the exact opposite. He swam once retrieved the dummy, and started to swim a second time even before I threw the dummy to finish the day. I was excited and nervous to hear the scores. We regrouped and the first dogs score was a 112 Max Prize One. Steve Kane, the senior judge began to read off my score. The first category "Use of Nose" was a 4 and he asked me what I thought my next scores were. As we went down the score card, with doubt, I said lower numbers but was corrected to 4 in every category. Then he said Otis got a max score of 112, Prize One and everyone cheered. The entire chapter was proud of me and so were the judges.

I would like to thank all my training mentors and friends like my Dad, Ron Granai, Jill Fabel, and Jake Dinicola for all your help and support. I wouldn't have passed without them. I would also like to thank the 3 awesome judges that judged Otis on test day and loosened me up. Senior Judge Stephen Kane (OH), Judge Geoffrey Ferrer (NJ) & Judge James Norfleet (VA). Also for the record, I got a better score than my dad ever got! But he did get a Max score of 204 in the Utility test which gives me something to work for in the future.

How to Be Silent, Tidy, and Alert Right on Time in Nosework

By Carla Simon

In nosework competition, a few common errors are frequently repeated, and can complicate an otherwise solid performance. Most teams would be more successful if the handler learned how to be silent, tidy, and alert right on time. In fact, practicing these 3 key areas could give you a significant boost.

- Be Silent

When you ask most nosework judges for their pet peeve, most will choose handlers who talk too much. Handlers tend to repeat the dog's name, "find it", "show me", or all of the above!

During the search, the dog should be obedient to odor, not obedient to the handler, so talking is usually a counterproductive distraction. This reminds me of Charlie Brown's teacher making unintelligible "blah, blah, blah" noises. Most dogs learn to tune out the incomprehensible, constant noise. But when the handler stands still next to an object where he suspects odor is located while repeating "show me", many dogs will offer a false alert, in hopes of earning a reward. It's far better to be silent and allow the dog to do his job.

- Be Tidy with Reward Delivery

Most handlers are aware that they shouldn't drop the tuna or ball in the search area. But many end up dropping rewards anyway! Some handlers may think that they're far enough away, but this might cause the judge to at least consider faulting the performance. Other handlers fumble clumsily with treats during the process of reward delivery. This isn't a knowledge gap, but rather, something you should practice until you do it well, without even thinking. Try using large pieces of chilled wieners from a training vest with deep pockets, or bake a batch of tuna fudge (from the recipe at <https://noseworkblog.wordpress.com/2016/02/03/the-best-noncrumbling-training-rewards/>) and cut it into generous cubes. If offering a toy reward, use a long toy that you can continue to grip in your hand while the dog plays with you.

- Call Alert Right on Time

When competing in front of an audience, adrenaline pumps up nervous handlers. They may become so intensely focused on finding the location of source, sometimes they accidentally call alert while the dog is close to odor, but before the dog has decided the exact location of source. For example, in Masters Containers where intentional distractions are required in the search area, a dog may momentarily sniff the distraction box, and if the handler calls the alert then, the team will be disqualified. Similarly, with dogs who have a trained formal alert such as lying down, the dog may lie down between 2 boxes or objects, and if you don't allow him sufficient time to identify which is the precise location, you may not be able to answer the judge if he asks you where it is. Don't worry about the time allowed. Worrying won't help your dog. Instead, try giving your dog time to do his job, make his decision and show you the precise location of source before you call the alert with confidence.

In conclusion, if you practice being silent, tidy and alert right on time, every time you do nosework, you'll be far more likely to make crucial errors under stress in competition. Not only will you enjoy greater reliability, but you'll also have more fun once you relax and trust the only partner who can find odor: the dog!

BRANDIED QUAIL

4 Quail
1 Stick Butter -- clarified, divided
1/2 c Currant or Apricot Jelly
dash Salt
2 tb Brandy - or to taste

Cut quail into serving pieces, using breasts only or breasts and legs if you wish. Brown slowly in 1/2 of butter for about 1/2 hour. When nicely browned on all sides, push to one side and add currant or apricot jelly to the drippings. Add remainder of butter, a dash of salt, and stir well while the jelly melts. When sauce is well blended, spread the browned pieces of quail out again and baste with the sauce. Cover and let simmer until meat is fork tender. Skim off fat and add brandy to the mixture. Amount depends solely upon taste preference. Stir in brandy just until heated and serve.

HONEY BAKED PHEASANT BREASTS

4 boneless pheasant breasts, approx 4-6 oz. each seasoned flour (with salt, pepper and paprika)
onion powder
garlic powder
1 cup butter
2 cups honey
3 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped

Preheat oven to 300 degrees F.
In medium skillet, melt 1/2 cup butter. Flatten the breast pieces so they are approximately the same thickness; dredge in flour and sprinkle onion powder and garlic powder over each piece. Brown pheasant breasts in melted butter and move to glass 9x13 inch pan. Melt remaining butter in skillet and add honey. Once warmed through, pour over pheasant breasts and sprinkle parsley on top. Cover pan tightly with aluminum foil and bake for 20-25 minutes at 300 degrees or until juices run clear. Serves 4

WILD GROUSE WITH LIME

6 grouse breast halves
1 fresh lime
1/2 cup flour
1 tsp. garlic salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
1 T vegetable oil
2 T. brown sugar
1/2 cup chicken broth
1/2 cup white wine

Wash grouse and pat dry. Peel lime, grate and set aside. Squeeze juice from lime and pour over grouse. Put flour, salt, and pepper in re-sealable plastic bag. Place breast halves in bag and shake until covered. Heat vegetable oil in non-stick skillet. Brown breast halves on both sides. Place in a baking dish. Combine lime peel and brown sugar and sprinkle over breasts. Then add chicken broth and white wine. Cover with foil and bake for 1 hour at 350 degrees.

The Senior Dog

Over the years, our column has covered all sorts of subjects, from starting puppies, training young dogs, and then to maintaining them through their hunting careers. There's one more area we'd like to touch on, because it's every bit as important: the older dogs. How do we handle the elders, those wonderful dogs who've been great hunting companions for many years and are slowing down and showing their age?

Most of us try to have a youngster in the pipeline, ready to take over hunting duties when the time comes. That usually means the two dogs will hunt together for a time while the young pup learns the ropes. We like to add the new pup when the other dog is middle-aged, right around seven or eight. That gives the young dog plenty of time to be fully trained before taking over as the main hunting dog, and it also takes a little of the pressure off of the older dog as age sets in.

But what about real retirement for the elder dog? It's not like there's some magic timeline that says, "When the new dog turns three," or, "When the old dog turns ten." Every situation is different, and so is every dog.

What comes to mind first is our perception of what's right for the dog compared to what the dog wants to do. It's really easy to say, "Hey, old buddy. You can hang out at home by the fireplace now. You've earned your retirement, and this puppy that's been pestering you the last year or two can take over." If your old dog stays right by the fireplace and doesn't get excited when you grab your gun case and pull on your boots, that was probably the right decision. But what if you 11-year-old gets up, trots to the door with a tail going a hundred miles an hour and excitement on its face? Is there a point at which you tell your dog that it's too old to go hunting?

Maybe yes, maybe no. Reality usually falls someplace in the middle. The first thing you need to know is, how physically healthy is the older dog? Has it been maintained in hunting condition, or has it gotten a bit flabby and soft? Take note: Keeping your dogs fit and trim even into old age is a good thing and will prolong the dog's lifespan. Does it show signs of old age infirmities, such as arthritis? And if so, is it manageable to a degree? How is the dog's eyesight? Hearing?

Of course this stuff tends to show up with age, but the bottom line is not whether the dog has some health issues, it's about how much they can be managed.

Hopefully, your vet understands sporting dogs and their needs compared to the average house pet, since there is a difference. They can tell you what the issues are and how to best manage them for your dog's comfort and safety.

The next thing to consider is the dog's attitude. Just because a dog is older and may have a few infirmities doesn't mean they have to completely retire – as long as their attitude says, "I want to go hunting" and your vet gives the okay. The important thing is to tailor the amount and kind of hunting to what the dog can handle. If you've got your young dog ready to go, let it do the bulk of the work, but give the elder dog just enough to make it content. Remember, dogs don't look at things the way we do in terms of fairness. The older dog isn't going to feel slighted because it only got a few minutes worth of work while the young dog hunted all morning. Sometimes all the dog really wants is to go hunting - the length of time doesn't matter as much as just getting to go along.

The conditions you're planning to hunt I can also make a difference in deciding if the older dog should hunt and for how long. Terrain and weather are considerations for all dogs, regardless of age. While the elder dog may well be able to have a good outing on pheasants when it's 40 degrees, dropping the temperature to zero is going to change the game. Breathing icy air isn't good for lungs (for dogs or humans!), and arthritis is often aggravated by cold. Ice and snow are hard on skin and feet.

The opposite is true as well. Extreme heat isn't any dog's friend, and the older they get, the harder it is on them. Going out hunting when it's hot and humid will need to be carefully monitored to be sure the dogs don't overheat. That's where we come in. Dogs aren't always the best judge of how much they can handle, so it's up to us to make that decision for them. Same goes for terrain. Try to let the old dog hunt the easier stuff if possible, and let the young dog be the one to tackle the more challenging terrain.

Rick Smith has spent a lifetime breeding, training, and handling National Championship bird dogs. His highly popular training seminars teach the "Silent Command System" to dog owners world-wide. During hunting season, Rick can be found on the Mariposa Ranch in south Texas.

Sharon Potter has a strong background in animal behavior, and has been training both horses and dogs for many years, with several National titles to her credit. She is an avid hunter and archer, and in her spare time is working on the first of a series of books on bird dog training with Rick Smith.

Now for some more serious questions. What about that older, arthritic dog that tends to be a little gimpy? It may just be that the dog needs enough movement to warm up those aged joints a bit, so give it a few minutes of moving around to loosen things up. Movement is usually good for arthritis, and as the dog warms up, the joints may move more freely. What if, even after a short warm-up, the dog is still a little stiff? Again, you be the judge.

Watch the rest of the dog, too, not just the legs. If its attitude is positive, let the dog hunt, but go at the dog's pace. But you decide when enough is enough. If that stiffness gets worse or the dog starts acting tired, it's time to stop and be done for the day. And remember, your vet may have some suggestions as to how to manage that post-hunting discomfort.

One really great way to let your older dog hunt and stay happy rather than feeling left out and depressed is to head to a game farm and pay for a few birds. As a rule, the going is easy, the birds are pretty much a sure thing, and the old dog gets to do what it really loves, even if it's just for a few minutes. Sometimes all it takes to make that elderly dog happy is just one bird. You can use the rest of what you've paid for on training the youngster. As we said earlier, dogs don't keep track of how many birds they got or how many hours they hunted. All they know is that they got to go hunting, and that's all it takes to make them feel like they are part of the team. Don't force them to quit doing something they love just because of a few infirmities. Just make it easy and fun for them.

Something we've heard a lot is: "What if something happens and my old dog's heart fails and it dies while hunting?" That's a possibility, of course, but not a common one. Our answer? What a great way to go – doing something they lived for and loved, with the person who was their whole world. To us, that's a far better end than a stainless steel table in a veterinarian's office (with apologies, of course, to our veterinary friends – you understand, we know). It's far harder on us than on the dog, since they live in the moment. What better way for a dog to leave this world than inhaling fresh air, bird scent, and gunpowder?

After hunting, don't be surprised if the dog is stiff and sore the next day. We'll be that way someday, too, if you aren't already, and we'll deal with it just like they do. But don't feel sorry for them because they're sore. Be happy for them that they still got to go hunting, because they're happy they got to go.

We never know which time will be the last one, and if you're like us, you won't want to deprive them of one single minute of the chance to do what they were born and bred for – and love so much. It hurts their feelings a lot more to be left home and have you go without them. So take those old dogs hunting and let them do what they're able to do for as long as they're willing to do it, even if it's just for a few minutes or for one bird. They'll love you for not forgetting them and for giving them every opportunity to be with you in the field.

September 11 & 12, 2016 AKC Quarterly Delegate Meeting Reported by Jane Bjork

First, I want to say that I am honored to be able to be the delegate for the American Brittany Club. My very helpful mentor Brittany fancier Cindy Miller (delegate for Harrisburg Kennel Club) lined me up with a full day.

Another thought, perhaps because I am green and in the PollyAnna stage, is that there is a multipronged effort to keep purebred dog sports alive in the USA. In England, when the rich and powerful were about to be legislated out of foxhunting, they went foxhunting instead of fighting back.

Field Trial and Hunt Test Committee: Doug Lundgren reports field event entries are up 5% total, with pointing breed statistics up 2%. I reported that northeast area entries are down. It was recommended that we keep our stakes open to all pointing breeds.

Brief discussion of survey sent to clubs covering grounds, mentoring, judges, birds, public relations and quality of judging at performance dog events and complaints against judges. Common themes were inexperience, inconsistency, favoritism of people and dogs. Judging apprentice opportunity and prevalence differs among the trialers and testers and type of test (pointing breed, flushing breed, retrievers.) One recommendation from the committee was that an apprentice should be invited if the club would like to have this person judge in the future.

Flexible format is being misused and is source of many exhibitor complaints. Flexible Format only applies up until the drawing and not after. After the drawing, order of the stakes can only be changed with AKC permission. Complaints must be reported. Reps only attend about 10% of performance events.

There is a lack of AKC identification (logos, flags) and a lack of a trial/test headquarters at many events where someone new could ask questions. At your events, include something recognizable and welcoming.

Canine Health Committee: AKC has funded $1.2 million in grants to date this year. Diane Brown reported $130,000 has been donated by clubs and foundations, to be matched by the AKC up to $250,000. Much has been done regarding the Tickborne Diseases Initiative. There is a collaborative grant between AKC and OFA regarding thyroid disease, believed to be rooted in autoimmune thyroiditis. Michigan State will be mining OFA database for thyroid data, so it is essential that we send our results to OFA. Other initiatives include an epilepsy study, early spay and neuter, lymphoma and supporting new residents in theriogenology (canine reproduction). There is a fundraiser on Thursday, December 15th in Orlando, Florida with the National Dog Show.

There is a study in disease transmission at dog events available at JAVMA.org in full text. A layperson whitepaper is also being written and there will be an article in Dog News.

The National Cancer Institute, National Institute of Health and Canine Health Foundation are collaborating on a study on the gene mutation BRAF that causes cancer in Dogs, and is focusing on early identification and treatment. Insurance companies are in favor, because bladder cancer in dogs often has delayed treatment due to being confused with a urinary tract infection. There is benefit to people as well, as dog cancer serves as a research model for human cancer.

Brucellosis is being found in 10% of shelter-translocated dogs so be careful what you bring into your kennel.

Dr. Carmen Battaglia reports that 60% of all puppies never get registered. One-third of all breeds are headed for extinction, and only 10% of all purebred dogs ever get bred. There will be more on this at the December Quarterly meeting.

Parent Club Meeting: Group Realignment Survey: In 2012, there were 16 votes short of a majority to examine group realignment. Since 2012, there have been 17 new breeds. Seventy percent of delegates and fanciers are in favor and there is a committee to revisit this headed by Dr. Charlie Gavin. The ABC will not be "told" where our breed will be aligned and parent club input will be sought.

Generic Diversity Committee: NPR had a show on what they termed "torture breeding"- the breeding of brachycephalic breeds such as bulldogs. Dr Pederson from UC Davis was featured, and used donated bulldog DNA (for purposes other than intended) on a subset of non-show breeders who knowingly inbred for rare, non-standard colors to show a lack of genetic diversity. There were no conformation Bulldogs in the study. Purebred dog people used to be the experts, and now we are criminalized and there is a movement to charge breeders with animal cruelty such as currently exists in Switzerland.

What can we do? Show healthy vigorous animals on our websites (club and personal). Advertise on AKC Marketplace. Identify good PR people in our club and have a central PR person as a contact with press material "on the ready". Have people with strong genetic and scientific background as NPR "won't talk to people without a PhD". Develop local partnerships with vet schools and have health testing days there. AKC has a Scientific Committee. Other contacts include Dr. Jerry Klein, Brandi Hunter, Dr. Michael Hughes, Bob and Cyndi Newcomb from the Bulldog club of America encourage contacts and their emails are rocyn@embarqmail.com and bobnewcomb1@aol.com.

Other News: NBC Sports will be filming KC of Beverly Hills and airing it Easter Sunday. New Rally clubs may be formed outside the territory of existing clubs licensed to hold rally. Dog show rules- one out of every 2 consecutive shows must be held in its territory. Altered dogs may still only be shown in veteran classes at solo specialties.

Legislative Update:

Lots of new PAWS pending legislation proposed. Increase in spay/neuter legislation, increase in importing of shelter dogs to retail pet stores, amendments to laws regarding rescuing pets in hot cars, many with negative unintended consequences. There is a constant effort to lower the threshold of number of breeding females, and "breeding female" is not defined. There is legislation intended to streamline civil forfeiture based on accusation, not fact.

AKC is pushing for legislation to have pet friendly domestic violence shelters. Seventy percent of people in a violent situation reconsider leaving because they don't want to leave pets behind.

APHIS Regulations: If you sell pets face to face, don't sell/import them for resale, don't use them for commercials, photo shoots etc., don't take compensation or write it off on taxes when transporting rescues (compensation of any sort, including counting hours to maintain certification if you pilot your plane), don't sell more than 50 dogs a year, you should be exempt from APHIS regulations. "Exhibitor" in the regulations does not refer to dog shows and trials but for animals for entertainment outside of a store to attract customers, circuses, zoos. "Handler" refers to someone who transports from one person to another. This is a complaint-driven system with only 120 inspectors for the entire country.

Sign up for APHIS email alerts by choosing "animal care" in lower left hand corner of their website.

NAIA pet legislative conference coming up in Orlando November 5 and 6. Go to NAIAonline.com

Dr. Jerold Bell spoke on genetic health of purebred dogs. With purebred dogs, high homozygosity (genetic similarity) is expected along with deleterious recessive genes. Founder ancestors exhibit strong influence due to founder's effect and contribute more to present day than ancestors close up due to high genetic load. Do all available health screenings- whatever is testable and measurable, but we need more breedable individuals as only 3-5 percent of animals are bred. If you know of/produce a problem, try to breed away from it. We get popular sire syndrome, then his son becomes popular, and so on.

Dennis Sprung then gave a touching tribute to the 9/11 DOGSNY program where sculptures commemorating the rescue dogs of 9/11 served as a fundraiser and were placed throughout the city. I remember reading about this in the AKC Gazette.

Financial report: In 2015 Registrations are up 7%, litters bred are up 11%. Headcount is 300 and there has been an 8% increase in payroll and benefits expenditures. 4.2 million in the black so far this year.

A mailing went out from AKC PAC and this is important to all clubs.

AKC Pointing Breed Gun Dog Championship

Hobart Ames Plantation, Grand Junction, Tennessee

Winner: Piney Run Lily

As reported by David Webb

Several years ago as part of a responsibility for working with a forest products group, I attended a meeting in Memphis. The keynote speaker was an individual who was the timber products manager for the Hobart Ames Plantation in Grand Junction, Tennessee. His presentation focused on the forest management of the land at the Plantation. He discussed forestry and ecological research continually taking place at Ames. Also he informed the group of the harvesting of timber products – utility poles from the 3,500 acres of loblolly pine and railroad crossties and lumber from 8,500 acres of upland hardwoods.

However he emphatically stressed all of the forest management was done to maintain and improve the population of bobwhite quail—all about the birds. Over the years research projects have been conducted to determine if the habitat would sustain the quail population throughout the year for the National Championship—including several other field trials—without adding to the quail population. It was determined that with the various ground predators—coyotes, raccoons, skunks, etc.—plus hawks, to maintain enough quail for the trial was difficult. Currently there is a supervised predator management program in-place.

In 2002 the Plantation Management initiated a habitat program that included providing “feed strip” plots in which coveys of 20 birds each were planted in 160 locations; in 2014—during the month of September—the number of coveys was increased to 300 (12-week-old birds) placed into known wild covey locations. /At this time it appears that this number of quail planted in the fall of each year is sufficient to maintain a population for the use of running field trials on the 6,000 acres—use for field trials—on the Plantation.

The history of the Ames Plantation for use as field trial grounds is unprecedented. The first National Championship for Bird Dogs was held near West Point, Mississippi in 1896. Later the event was moved to grounds south of Grand Junction, Tennessee near Rogers Springs, Tennessee; finally to the Ames Plantation, which since 1915 has become the “hallowed” field trial grounds for running the National Championship. Details of the history of this National Championship have been described in the book written by William F. Brown and Nash Buckingham with several other books updating this National event. At one time, not only did the English setters and pointers breeds compete, but also other pointing dog breeds competed—Gordon setters and Irish setters.

It should be considered that the grounds at the Ames Plantation are undoubtedly the ultimate on which to run a field trial for pointing dogs. The quail population appears now to be sustainable, because of predator management program and the habitat feed plot program with birds put in wild covey locations. Pointing dog handlers, who competed on the grounds, have indicated “it takes a dog with bird-sense to hunt the Plantation”. It also is an area in which a handler can “show” the performance of the pointing dog. It is an understatement to say these are “hallowed” grounds for a field trial. The care that is taken to provide habitat to sustain quail is worthy of note. Pointing dogs must perform at their best to win on these grounds.

The AKC Pointing Breed Gun Dog Championship was given permission to hold the 2016 event on the Ames Plantation. This was the second time that AKC held this event at the Plantation; the first being in 2012. The efforts of Ken Blackman, Field Trial Chairman and Field Trial Secretary, Trish James are recognized for their contribution and hard work to put on this event. The sponsors for this event were:

Purina – the official dog food sponsor www.purina.com, Garmin/Tri-Tronics Inc. www.garmin.com, SportDOG www.sportdog.com, Dogs Unlimited www.dogsunlimited.com.

Judges Jesse Chapman and Jim House gave their undivided attention to the 77 pointing dogs from seven different pointing dog breeds. This was a high-quality group of field trial dogs competing in this Championship. Reviewing the list of dogs on the brace sheets, it is noted many are Champions and National Champions within their respective breed. It was a high-caliber stake with placements and performances reflecting the “best-of-the-best” pointing dogs in this AKC event.

The winner of the AKC Pointing Breed Gun Dog Championship came from brace No. 10, Piney Run Lily handled by Ben Lorenson for owner Martha Greenlee of Baskerville, Virginia. Lily is an eight-year old, white/orange Brittany sired by Piney Run Art with the dam being Maxwell’s Southern Hospitality. Lily was one of 24 Brittans that competed. Throughout the one hour running of the event she was forward catching “the eye” of the judges, who watched her performance. Those of us who own, hunt, and compete with Brittans can be proud of Lily’s win at this AKC Championship event and of all the pointing dog breeds – “it was a Brittany that won.”

Dates: February 29, 2016 through no later than March 12

A Little Competition

A Novella and Twenty-Two Short Stories

By Tom Word

Quitting the Game

Fred Barnes and John Reed woke early with hangovers. They found themselves alone in the lodge of Barnes' Cypress Swamp Plantation. Field Trial Week at Cypress Swamp had just ended, and the twentieth running of the Deep South Championship, sponsored by Fred and John, was now history. It had been a disaster. The two judges—one picked by Fred and the other by John—had not seen the dogs alike. A two-dog callback had been ordered between dogs no one, except the judges, thought were contenders. It was to be a sudden-death match, one of the two dog assured to be champion, the other runner-up. In the callback, both had hunted close and birdless for an hour and a half. Finally, the judges declared a winner, to no one's satisfaction save the winning team's, and even they had been a bit embarrassed. All the rest had departed Cypress Swamp mad.

As Fred and John silently struggled to assemble breakfast, the same thoughts coursed through their minds. Fred spoke first: "I think it's time to quit."

"Me too," John answered without hesitation.

At a table on the deck they watched the sunrise and listened to the quail whistle off the roost as they warmed their hands on their coffee mugs. Inside, bacon slowly sizzled on the stove. Their heads ached dully.

Their thoughts turned to the impact the decision would have on their handlers. Fred's dogs were handled by Billy Seed, who also managed Cypress Swamp. He would be heartbroken, but still employed. John's handler was Joe Dunn, a "for the public" handler based in Alabama. John was Joe's best customer, accounting for half his revenue. John's quitting the game would surely end Joe's career on the circuit. Joe had been handling John's dog for twenty-five years. There was deep affection between the two, in spite of the usual disagreements. John was an autocrat, CEO of his own furniture factory, Joe a man of strong convictions. They mostly respected one another's opinions, but inevitably disagreed from time to time on the talent of a prospect, how much work to give a dog, or some other petty detail of their joint quest.

Like every other owner-handler team in the all-age game, that quest was to win the National Championship. They'd achieved it once, ten years ago. Fred and Billy had also, the year after that. Since then, both teams' good luck seem all used up. Every time a dog showed the potential for greatness, something happened—illness, injury, or a blow-up when the final pressure of breaking was applied. As Fred scrambled eggs and John buttered toast, they contemplated how best to break the news. It was John who came up with the idea: "Let's us have our own last field trial, one brace, entry fee $25,000, winner take all. Call Chester (dog trainer on the adjoining plantation) and see if he can judge."

"I'm sure he can," said Fred. "They don't shoot over there on Fridays."

They would wait 'til it was over to tell their handlers of the decision to quit. One would have $50,000 to soften the blow. If Billy's dog won, he'd still have his job as Cypress Swamp's manager, plus the $50,000. If Joe's dog won, he'd have $50,000 severance pay. For reasons of pride and money—two things dear to him—John mightily hoped Joe would take the prize.

"Which dogs do we run?" John posed the question.

"Let's run the derbies," Fred answered.

John smiled. He had a derby he especially liked, though unknown to him his handler was ready to give up on the dog. Its name was Almost Midnight. It had won a prairie derby stake in September, but nothing since, and now it was February. Fred's best derby was Buckaroo, a brother of Midnight. He had won twice in small local stakes, but Billy Speed did not believe he could make it as an all-age dog, news he'd withheld from Fred, who had a soft spot for the youngster. The derbies were from the last litter of Mama Cass, the blue hen jointly owned by Fred and John, buried beneath a stone just outside the lodge's front door. She'd carried blood of both their national champions.

Joe was staying at Billy's house, so just one more phone call was required to set up the private trial. They'd break away at 2:30. Billy and Joe were elated at the prospect of winning $50,000 and anxious to start before their bosses sobered up and changed their minds. (In fact, neither had taken a drink since midnight.)

Eight riders gathered beneath the live oaks. With Chester, to ride as the second judge, was his scout Botty Brown, a man with Ted Williams' eyesight, Eddy Acarro's seat upon a horse, and Eddy Murphy's wit and skin tone.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" Chester intoned.

"Just a minute please, judge," Joe Dunn said, motioning for Billy to ride off with him for a private word. Fred and John watched impatiently as their handlers conferred just out of earshot, then nodded to one another and returned.

Chester said, "Let 'em go." The littermate pointers yipped with glee and in seconds were out of sight to the front, locked up in a foot race down the course path. Both owners felt a foreboding. Both handlers cursed under their breaths. Five minutes passed, and neither dog appeared. Scouts were waived left and right. Fred and John rode in silence as the handlers searched far ahead, calling for their dogs.

The bad luck that had plagued the Deep South Championship had spilled over to the old friends' private trial. They debated what to do if both derbies were lost—run another brace, flip for the prize money, call it a push? None of these would do.

Just as despair gripped them, the far off call of "Point! Point!" drifted in from a scout. Fred and John put spurs to their mounts. So did Billy and Joe.

They arrived at a classic scene: Midnight and Buckaroo were pointing fifteen yards apart, both staring into the same feed patch. A divided find, Chester ruled as the big covey exploded and both handlers fired a delayed shot. To their amazement, the derby brothers did not chase. Fred and John allowed themselves smiles, their first in a week.

When the hour ended, each dog had scored four finds, including the divided one. Each had run a wide and forward race, handled enough, and made no mistakes on game. Both had finished strongly. The handlers were amazed. Neither knew how Chester and Booty would likely rule, so nearly identical were the performances. Fred and John had told Chester and Booty there could be no callbacks or extensions of time. They must declare a winner at the end of the hour. Now owners, handler, and scouts stared at the taciturn judges.

Chester nodded to Booty, "We'll be back in a minute," and the two judges rode out of sight. They looked at one another, and Booty lifted his hands in a gesture of "Beats me." Chester pulled a quarter from his jeans and flipped it, and they rode back to the waiting men.

"The winner is Midnight," Chester announced solemnly, expecting a tirade from Billy and Fred. Instead, they thanked both men warmly. Congratulations were spoken all around. Then the eight horsemen rode for the barn, the pointers pulling happily in harness ahead of their handlers.

Fred and John looked at one another and smiled. They did not have to say that the morning's decision had been rescinded. They would not quit the game just yet. Their hangovers were forgotten.

Joe and Billy smiled at one another, too. They would split the $50,000 evenly, a hedge they had agreed to just before the breakaway.

Fred slipped Chester five new $100 bills, and John did the same for Booty.

MEMBERS OF THE AMERICAN BRITTANY CLUB

Give the gift of a new membership... to give the opportunity to someone to learn about and participate in the American Brittany Club.

This membership campaign is really quite simple, we are asking every member to donate/sponsor a membership in the American Brittany Club. This "gifted" membership might be to a puppy purchaser, or a friend/acquaintance who has a Brittany. All of us encounter people who may just need a little encouragement to become members.

This can work, but it is totally dependent upon your support. Please use the ABC application form in the back of the magazine to enroll a new member today. You may donate/sponsor multiple new memberships. The names of new members & ABC sponsors will be published in the magazine on a quarterly basis.

THIS IS OUR CHANCE TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE!
